WHITE STUFF OF WINTER

The first snowfall of the season swirled around the Wrigley Building in Chicago yesterday as the nation's midlands lay under a heavy blanket of the white stuff. Up to five inches fell in some parts of the Midwest, snarling traffic and causing an untold number of auto accidents. (See story, page 11.)

Wholesale Index Spurts 2.3 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by soaring food prices, the Wholesale Price Index spurted upward by 2.3 per cent in October, signaling more higher consumer prices in the weeks ahead.

The Labor Department announced the index for October stood at 170.0, which meant that wholesale prices last month were 70 per cent higher than they were in the base year of 1967.

The index, which consists of data collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is based on prices that manufacturers charge to retailers and jobbers, who in turn deal with the consuming public. Thus, increaes in the wholesale prices usually are passed along to consumers in ensuing weeks.

The Bureau said the wholesale price jump was due mostly to an increase of 4.7 per cent in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds in October after a September decline.

That percentage would represent a 54.6 per cent increase in food prices on an annual basis. Food price increases eclipsed some optimistic indications in the wholesale prices of industrial products.

Leading the rise in wholesale food prices were cereal, bakery goods, edible fats and oils, milk, pork and eggs. Prices of beef, veal, fish, poultry and vegetables declined, the bureau said.

The October surge was sharply higher than the September increase, whose modest 0.1 per cent gain had caused some administration officials to express hopes that inflationary pressures were easing.

Despite the overall rise in the food category, the bureau said wholesale farm products in October were 0.5 per cent lower than October, 1973. But manufacturers processing raw farm goods into cereals, frozen dinners and other convenience packaging have raised wholesale prices 19.1 per cent over the same period, accounting for the higher prices consumers pay in the supermarket.

Foods account for 32 per cent of the wholesale index and industrial commodities 68 per cent. Industrial commodities are the goods used in the manufacture of most consumer durable and nondurable goods.

There was encouraging news in industrial commodities, which rose 1.1 per cent in October. Higher wholesale prices for trucks, autos, chemicals and machinery led the upward momentum.

The bureau said there were indications in the industrial commodities category that inflationary pressures may have peaked in October. The October rise virtually matched the pace in September and was down sharply from monthly increases which ranged from 2.0 to 2.9 per cent from January to August.

Payments Were Hush Money, LaRue Says

Convicted Watergater Details Payoff Planning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fredrick C. LaRue, a major figure in the money-dispensing operation of the 1972 Nixon campaign, testified today he understood that payments to the Watergate burglars were designed to buy their silence.

LaRue thus became the first witness in the cover-up trial of five associates of former President Richard M. Nixon to testify that the nearly $500,000 passed to the bugging conspirators was, in effect, hush money. Others have said it was for "humanitarian purposes" — family support and legal fees.

LaRue, a former Nixon campaign aide who has pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the cover-up, testified how he relayed thousands of dollars in cash to meet the demands of the Watergate burglars. Once, he said, he even wore gloves so his fingerprints would never be found on the $100 bills.

"From the beginning what was the purpose of the payments to these defendants as you understood them?" asked Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste.

"My understanding was that the payments were to fulfill commitments that had been made to the defendants,"

Peers Pleased His My Lai Report At Last Is Public

Five years after he wrote the report that concluded that at least 30 officers — including two chaplains — contributed to the coverup of the My Lai massacre of Vietnamese civilians, Gen. William R. Peers of Kentfield is "happy to see it released." (See story, page 44.)

"The American public should know," the general declared yesterday after Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway made public two volumes of the general's long-secret four-volume report.

Peers who hasn't seen the document since he completed it, said his task had been to investigate military offenses, not war crimes. "I was given the job of determining whether reports of the incident were sufficient and whether there was any attempt to cover it up."

"It's an eye opener," the general said of the account which held that "the massacre resulted primarily from the nature of the orders issued by persons in the chain of command."

WILLIAM R. PEERS
My Lai report

Peers, who has lived in Marin since his retirement a year ago, noted that 14 of the 30 officers mentioned in his report were later charged in connection with the 1968 slaughter.

But of the 14, only Col. Orrin K. Henderson was tried on the coverup charges and he was acquitted in 1971. Henderson commanded the unit that made the My Lai sweep.

Callaway told a news conference the Peers text had been previously withheld to protect the rights of the accused. But other sources said President Richard M. Nixon's administration had insisted on suppressing it.

Those sources added that when President Ford took office the wheels immediately began turning to make it public.

Peers said he knew nothing about any suppression of the document, but added he asked the Army secretary to release it "about eight months ago. But he told me it would be made public when the time was right."

Since the massacre, Peers said he believes the Army "has taken strong action" to insure that there are no more My Lais.

Water Board Delays Ferry Action

By BARBARA HOSMER

Marin Municipal Water District directors yesterday almost put the cork on water service to the planned Larkspur ferry terminal. (Another water district story, page 6.)

After agonizing for an hour, they postponed a vote until Nov. 27 and told the applicant, the Golden Gate Bridge District, to cut further its planned 19.85 acre-feet of water per year for its San Quentin peninsula terminal, landscaping and boats.

Under its moratorium on new water connections, the board must find undue public hardship or an emergency condition affecting public health, sanitation or fire protection to grant the new service.

"Either way the board goes would be upheld under the (water ban) ordinance," attorney Tom Thorner told the directors.

Directors William J. Filante, Polly O. Smith and L. Martin Griffin opposed granting the water service, citing a water shortage in the district.

Noting the bridge district's contention that the ferry run from Larkspur would alleviate Southern Marin traffic congestion by carrying San Francisco commuters, Griffin said that the terminal and the proposed adjacent Lincoln properties commercial and residential development would encourage population growth and "aggravate, not solve the traffic problem."

Filante accused the bridge district of creating a market for its ferry commute system.

"I see a project that will increase population in this area nad move away from what the county is trying to do — to encourage people to live near their work and have local bus service."

Mrs. Smith said that she couldn't vote for water service to the ferry terminal "when plain, ordinary people out there are hurting and we have turned them down" for water under the moratorium.

She urged the bridge district to tank up its ferries on the San Francisco end "where there is plenty of Hetch-Hetchy water."

But Stan Koleski, ferry transit manager for the bridge district, said, "Larkspur would be home for our vessels — all tank filling and housekeeping would be done there."

"If worse came to worse, you could use the San Francisco terminal," Mrs. Smith told him.

Director John M. MacPhail called the argument that the board had turned down small

Rocky Pledges A Closed Purse If His Nomination Is Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller agreed today to pledge in writing that he would not give away large sums of money to government officials if he becomes vice president.

Rockefeller produced a draft written pledge to that effect at his confirmation hearings before the Senate Rules Committee where he denied violating New York State law by giving away and lending $2.5 million during his 15 years as governor.

In the pledge, he wrote only two exceptions — allowing him to give away "nominal amounts" as wedding, Christmas and birthday gifts and allowing him to help friends "in the event of special hardship of a compelling human character."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., objected to the second condition. He said any gift could meet that criterion. He suggested Rockefeller specify that such gifts would be made only in medical emergencies. Rockefeller agreed to the change.

Rockefeller told the committee his gifts and loans to associates in New York state did not violate a statute he had signed into law barring receipt of gifts over $25 or making gratuities to state officials for the performance of their duties.

The laws are violated only when it is the intent of the donor to reward or influence the recipient, Rockefeller said, and that was not the case.

But Rockefeller defended his generosity, including his decision to forgive $510,000 in loans to Dr. William Ronan, a state transportation expert.

He quoted the Lord's Prayer, which says, "Forgive us our

Ford Orders $300 Million Pumped Into Housing Mart

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — In an effort to make it easier to buy and sell existing homes, President Ford today ordered $300 million in government funds pumped into the nation's sagging housing market.

Speaking to a convention of the National Association of Realtors, the President said the money —to be used to help finance mortages on existing houses —will come from $3 billion earmarked until now for buying mortages on new, single-family homes.

The President and his entourage arrived in Las Vegas from Washington. He was greeted outside the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel by an enthusiastic crowd of about 100 persons. He shook hands with wellwishers and at

Pale And Weak Richard Nixon Ends 23-Day Stay In Hospital

The former president was helped from a wheelchair into a black limousine at a back service door at Long Beach Memorial and drove off with his wife, Pat, to San Clemente, a 60-mile drive down the coast.

A panel of three prominent doctors, appointed by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, made plans, meanwhile, to conduct their examination of Nixon at his oceanfront home — probably sometimes next week. (See story, photos, page 16.)

Nixon, clad in pajamas and a dark blue robe, was assisted to his feet and he stood shakily as he turned around to shake hands with nurses and others who had treated him during his time in the hospital.

Before being assisted into the limousine, Nixon patted his personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, on the back and then sat down beside Mrs. Nixon in the car driven by a Secret Service agent.

The route of the limousine took him along a street jammed with almost 100 reporters and photographers watching the departure and he waved through the car window at them and smiled faintly.

In medical bulletins Tuesday and yesterday, Lungren said he was concerned over Nixon's "labile hypertension," a sharp rise in blood pressure under even minor stress, such as conversation with a friendly visitor or thinking about a problem.

Postal Service To Return All That Unstamped Mail

If the envelope does not contain a return address, it will be sent to the dead letter office in San Francisco.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy said if an unstamped envelope winds up in San Francisco it will be opened to determine where it originated and returned to the sender with amount of postage due.

"This new rule applies to all unstamped mail," Cassidy said. He pointed out that public utilities and the telephone company have been the cheaters' main targets.

Forerunner of the national program, which was recently announced by Postmaster Gen. E. T. Klassen, was the Pacific Telephone Co. which last year began to return unstamped bills. Other utility companies followed suit.

There are exceptions to the new rule — prepaid business reply mail, federal government mail, free mail delivery to the blind, armed forces mail or keys and identification devices returned to owners.

The postal service has estimated stamp cheaters have cost the department up to $1 million annually the past several years.

BUYER'S BUTTON — Chris Fedewa, a secretary in the office of Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken, tried on a possible BAC button yesterday after the governor made a plea for Americans to "buy a car" to beat the recession.

Michigan's Governor Urges Car Purchases

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Republican governor of President Ford's home state of Michigan, hit hard by slumping car sales and heavy layoffs, is applying some subtle pressure for a reversal of economic policy: Buy cars.

Gov. William G. Milliken's advice to consumers yesterday was in sharp contrast to the President's earlier anti-inflation admonishment to citizens to tighten their belts and save their money.

The conflicting approaches bring into sharp focus the national debate over whether inflation or recession is public enemy No. 1. Ford's approach was aimed at reducing inflation by encouraging less spending. Now many economists say the problem is recession and more spending is needed to stimulate the economy — or, sell more cars and save more jobs.

The Ford administration, having cautiously acknowledged that the economy is entering a recession, received new hard evidence that the economy is becoming even more sluggish.

The Big Three auto companies reported a 38 per cent drop in car sales for the first 10 days in November, as the industry's worst sales period in a decade continued.

General Motors announced the temporary closing of three more compact car plants and the idling of another 7,100 workers, bringing the industry total to 76,410.

The coal strike made deeper cuts into industrial output and took a higher toll on rail and steel workers as thousands more were either laid off or given pink slips for next week. But agreement on a new contract yesterday meant the impact on coal-dependent industries would be limited to the 10 days to two weeks it takes for ratification.

Pressure mounted from Milliken and others on the administration for a new attack against recession and unemployment.

Pierre Rinfret, an economic adviser to former Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon, said Ford's admission of a recession "signifies a total about-face on economic policy. There is no anti-inflation program. It will become an anti-recession program."

Rinfret and other economists, including Leif Olsen of the First National City Bank of New York and Ann Mills of Irving Trust Bank of New York, predicted Ford would abandon the 5 per cent tax surcharge and encourage a slight easing of monetary policy.

But, said economist Eliot Janeway, the nation won't solve its economic problems and courts depression unless "we break the price of oil" by getting tough with oil exporting nations.

"We've been goodtime Charlie when we should go with a chisel instead of an open checkbook," Janeway said.

"Any attempt to pump up the economy when inflation is still in the double-digit range would run the grave risk of sparking a new explosion of wages and prices and another slump in business activity," Robertson said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Greek Promise

ATHENS (UPI) — Premier Constantine Caramanlis has promised to hold a referendum next month to let the people decide the fate of Greece's monarchy.

Caramanlis said last night he would call an "absolutely democratic" referendum on Dec. 8 if his New Democracy party wins next Sunday's parliamentary election.

Students Ousted

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI) — Seven students charged in the death of a Monmouth College student buried alive during a fraternity initiation rite have been expelled from Zeta Beta Tau fraternity and the local charter has been suspended temporarily.

James E. Greer Jr., executive secretary of the national fraternity, yesterday stripped the seven suspects of their membership in the organization and announced he had suspended the local charter.

William E. Flowers, 19, of Neptune, N.J., an honor student and the first black to pledge in the fraternity, smothered to death during a hazing initiation in which he and four others were ordered to dig "graves."

Busy Mailbox

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago, already noted for the world's busiest airport — O'Hare International — and the world's busiest intersection — State and Madison — now has yet another distinction.

Though no records are kept, the U.S. Postal Service says Chicago has the nation's busiest mailbox.

Tape Broadcasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three major radio and television networks have asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to change his mind and let them broadcast White House tapes introduced as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Sirica rejected their request before the trial began, citing traditional rules against broadcasting trials from the courtroom.

The networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — and the Radio-Television News Directors Association, followed up yesterday with a written request to Sirica to reconsider.

Summit Session

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Siberian summit meeting between President Ford and Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev on Nov. 23-24 will take place in the newly built guesthouse of a sanatorium in the hills above Vladivostok, Soviet Press reports said today.

Famine Proposals

ROME (UPI) — Delegates fighting world famine skirted the key question of food aid today, but tentatively agreed on a catch-all package of proposals ranging from the control of tsetse flies to the role of women.

Working committees at the World Food Conference agreed yesterday to put these resolutions for consideration: Urgent action on water management and irrigation problems; creating a stable balance between population and food supply; the full use of women in setting food and nutrition policies; control of tsetse flies.

Staff Shuffled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen yesterday shuffled his staff, including a new assignment for Nixon holdover Gerald L. Warren.

Warren, chief spokesman for Richard M. Nixon in his last year as President, will serve as a liaison with other government public information officers and editors and broadcasters outside of Washington.

John W. Husben will remain as deputy in the press office. Paul Miltich, President Ford's press secretary when Ford was the vice president, will become a special assistant to the President.

Tom DeCair will continue to work as an assistant to Nessen and Bill Roberts, was named as an assistant press secretary to deal with the electronic media.

Prince Is 26 And Still Single

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles celebrated his 26th birthday today, still the world's most eligible bachelor and apparently determined to stay that way for a while.

Charles

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said it was a day like any other for England's future king. He had his hands full with the twin duties of a member of the royal family and a navy lieutenant.

The prince of Wales has squired a list of pretty girls as long as his royal arm, and each time his loyal subjects wonder if this is "the one," the new future queen.

Accord Reached In Coal Walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coal negotiators last night reached agreement on pay and benefits expected to bring 12,000 striking miners back to work within two weeks — before a coal shortage staggers the economy.

Higher prices for coal are certain to follow.

Arnold Miller, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said the pact will "eradicate gross inequity that prevailed for many years."

The union's 38-member bargaining council was summoned to Washington to vote whether to submit the agreement to the rank-and-file for ratification. The ratification process is expected to take 10 days. Miners traditionally refuse to work without a contract and will stay out during that time.

"It's a very good contract," Miller said. "It's one I can sell to the membership."

Some union members, however, said they were prepared to vote no if the agreement does not meet their needs.

Louis Antal, president of Pittsburgh-based AMW District 5, said he did not believe the bargaining council would approve the contract solely on Miller's say-so.

"We're not going to ratify anything we think the men wouldn't accept," he declared.

Since negotiations began Sept. 3, he and Miller and their delegations had rewritten the contract "from the beginning to the very end."

It provides for $2 billion in contributions to the miners' health and welfare fund and an increase in monthly pensions from $150 to $250 over the three years of the pact.

It contains a one time $80 inflation catch-up bonus, pay increases of 9 per cent in the first year and 3 per cent in the second and third years, and cost of living adjustments — one cent an hour for each 0.4 rise in the government's cosumer price index.

It gives miners for the first time five days paid sick leave and pensions for widows. It provides for helpers on complicated machinery in underground mines and heavy machinery on surface mines. The miners also will get more time off, improved safety measures, modernized grievance machinery and more health security for their widows.

Bigger Food Dollar Bite Is Seen For Middlemen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The food middleman's margins, widening at a record rate, will expand another 1.4 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1974 and continue to advance at a slower pace in 1975, the Agriculture Department predicted yesterday.

On the basis of these forecasts and higher prices for some raw farm products, officials repeated their prediction that retail food prices will continue to rise through the first half of next year.

In a marketing and transportation report, government economists said the 1975 gains in food marketing margins, which include both costs and profits, will be slower than 1974 advances.

Agriculture economists earlier predicted that average retail food prices this year would be up 14 per cent to 15 per cent from 1973, about the same as the 14.5 per cent gain last year.

Although the total jolt to consumer pocketbooks was about the same for both years, Agriculture Department records show that most of the 1973 gain was attributed to higher farm prices while most of this year's increase can be attributed to higher marketing margins.

The marketing and transportation report said that the farm-retail spread in a sample market basket of U.S. farm foods for 1974 probably will average 21 per cent above 1973 after an expected 1.4 per cent gain in the fourth quarter.

Larkspur Man Killed In Crash

According to San Anselmo police, Mark Moore Shackelford, 22, of 9 Murray Lane, was nearing the Hub eastbound on Sir Francis Drake when the car he was driving weaved into the left land, then back to the right and plunged down an embankment into a small Pacific Gas and Electric Co. maintenance yard next to the Guasco Market.

He was alone in the auto, which belonged to his uncle, John Joseph Murray of the same address, police said. Officers reported witnesses said the car was traveling between 45 and 60 miles an hour when the accident happened at 12:16 a.m.

Shackelford was the 17th person killed in Marin County traffic so far this year, compared to 30 by this date last year.

Funeral arrangements and an autopsy were pending today at the Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, San Anselmo.

Offshore Oil Drilling Details Outlined For Coastal Officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Multiplying the rate of oil drilling in United States offshore lands "is the keystone to meeting the nation's energy needs in the late '70s and '80s," Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told officials of the affected states today.

Morton and officials from federal energy and environmental agencies spent the morning describing in detail plans to triple offshore leasing. Morton and President Ford had outlined the plan yesterday to the governors, governors-elect and lieutenant governors of 14 coastal states. They got a mixed reaction.

Today, the audience was largely energy and resource officials of the states who will be involved in state-level planning to prepare for impact of offshore development.

"Concern has been expressed that we should not lease in any frontier area until the coastal states have completed detailed plans to accommodate onshore impact," Morton said. "Delay is not necessary because the shore-side impact will not occur until for several years following a lease sale."

Most of the concern was voiced by governors directly to Ford and Morton last evening at the White House.

Ford told them: "We must adopt rigorous conservation measures, but it is clear that regardless of what conservation steps we take and what eventual long-range energy policy we adopt, in the near term we must increase our domestic production of oil and gas.

"I believe that the Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas deposits can provide the largest source of increased domestic energy during the years when we need it the most."

Marion announced a four-year leasing plan at a rate of one lease for every two months through 1978, including "frontier areas" in the Alaskan Gulf and the Atlantic offshore region never before drilled for oil and gas.

"The Outer Continental Shelf represents the best hope of significantly increasing domestic production of oil and gas," Morton said.

By tripling the current rate of 3 million leased acres a year, he said, the United States can reduce its reliance on high priced imported oil.

Firm Ford Stand Asked By Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has called on President Ford to withstand political pressures in his efforts to combat inflation.

At a question-and-answer session with high school students yesterday, Reagan said factory layoffs and recession were the result of inflation.

"In order to do it (fight inflation), there has to be a cooling down," the retiring governor said.

"The only cure is to go right back to inflation," he said. "I hope the President does not yield to political pressure."

An exhibit of art work done by patients of the Greenbrae Convalescent Home will be held next Thursday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the home, 1220 South Eliseo Drive.

Kerner Back In Federal Pen

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who appeared in U.S. Tax Court to defend a $73,000 tax deduction for a charitable contribution on his 1969 income tax return, was back in federal prison today.

Kerner is serving three years in federal minimum security prison at Lexington, Ky., for his conviction for bribery conspiracy, perjury and income-tax evasion in connection with the race track stock scandal. He was given a furlough to appear at the hearing yesterday before Judge Cynthia Holcomb Hall.

Judge Hall said she would write an opinion sometime after March 28, 1975, when the last written arguments are due in from lawyers in the tax case.

Impact Hearing Scheduled On Tamalpais Homesites

A hearing on an environmental impact report for a proposed land division on Mount Tamalpais will resume tomorrow before Marin County environmental hearing officer Joel E. Rubey.

The hearing, set for 10 a.m. at the Mill Valley City Hall, stems from a proposal by property owner Ellis A. Lando to divide six acres off Fern Canyon Road into two three-acre homesites.

The land division, if approved by county officials, would result in creating a third lot since another seven acres lie within Mill Valley city limits.

Lando's proposal has been protested by a number of residents, who say that two or three homes on the property would blight the south face of the mountain.

They have raised questions over soil stability, sewage runoff and loss of natural vegetation, among other things.

Housing Board Postpones Session

A meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority board scheduled for tonight has been postponed due to lack of a quorum, the authority announced.

A house without insulation is like a house without doors ...it lets all the heat out!

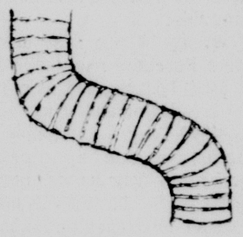

LOW COST INSULATION PAYS FOR ITSELF!

That's right! For a nominal price you can insulate your attic and the savings on your utility bill alone will offset the cost in a very short time.

The American Society of Heating and Ventilation has shown that you can lose up to 60% of your home's heat through the attic. With rising energy cost it makes more sense than ever to stop this heat loss with insulation.

Envirotherm, an affiliate of McPhails Inc., can now help you insulate your home with guaranteed results. For more information on our low prices and one day installation call or write today.

TRIAL

LaRue replied. "My understanding or feeling was that if these commitments were not kept, these defendants might disclose certain information they had that would lead back to the Committee to Re-elect the President."

LaRue, in his second day on the witness stand, related in detail how he received requests for funds, discussed them with high White House and campaign officials and then arranged for the secret delivery of money — primarily to William O. Bittman, the lawyer for bugging conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

The final and most crucial payment he said he made was $75,000 to Bittman on March 21, 1973, after Hunt had demanded $135,000 and threatened to disclose "seamy" things he had done for the White House.

The tape of a March 21 White House meeting played earlier in the trial showed that demand was relayed to Nixon and the former president replied it was something that "damn well better get done."

Nixon's wish reportedly was relayed to defendant John N. Mitchell, the former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager. LaRue said he called Mitchell that afternoon to tell him about the Hunt demand and ask what should be done about it.

FORD

In his speech, Ford gave some advice to American consumers.

Ford also warned, "In the weeks and months ahead, I will call on the American people — and I underline people —to sacrifice for the national good." He said federal spending must be cut and tax revenues upped. But, declaring he is no "prophet of doom," the President said:

"Inflation will be cooled. Despite some economic weakness —recession —business fallback —call it what you will —there will be an upturn in the nation's economic patterns. In fact, here in Las Vegas where it's legal, I'll even bet on it."

Ford did not predict when the economy will make the improvement.

To the realtors mustered at the Hilton Hotel he talked about the economic ills affecting the nation's housing industry. "The housing industry is suffering the effects of inflation more intensely than most other industries," he said. He said he was doing this:

Turning 10 per cent of the Home Purchase Assistance Act to used housing. He said this will help buyer and seller.

Asking Congress to follow his suggestion and appropriate money not only for one-family house buying but also to make it easier to finance rental housing and condominiums.

Asking Congress to pass a proposed Financial Institutions Act. It would steady credit in house buying and, he said, let banks and savings and loan institutions "compete more effectively during periods of high interest rates."

Ring Mountain To Be Discussed

An open space workshop chaired by Councilman Larry P. Weingarth will be held today at 8 p.m. in the Corte Madera Town Hall.

Discussion will center on Ring Mountain, and will include reports on the roles of Corte Madera, Strawberry, Tiburon and the county in attempting to preserve the area as open space.

Techniques for successfully promoting open space bond issues also will be discussed. Corte Madera intends to put a bond issue on the March 4 ballot.

Fire Station To Tap Into Line

The Tiburon Fire District board last night agreed to spend $10,727 to switch its Station No. 2 on Trestle Glen Boulevard from a septic tank to a sewer line.

The work will be done by San Anselmo Sewer Service, the low bidder on the project, according to Chief Franklin J. Buscher.

Meeting Delayed

The regular meeting of the Nicasio School District board, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Thursday, according to Beverly Alberigi, district secretary. The board will meet at 7 p.m. at Nicasio School.

Two Resign Bolinas Board Seats

Directors Judith Weston and Lewis Macadams Jr. of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District last night announced their resignations from the district board.

Macadams, a poet, told his fellow board members that he will step down December 15 because he is moving to New York City.

Mrs. Weston, a writer and artist, said her resignation will be effective January 15. She is moving to a part of Bolinas that lies just outside the utility district boundaries.

The board made no decision last night on how to fill the upcoming vacancies, but members seemed to favor appointments over a special election.

At one point, chairman William A. Niman suggested that the entire board quit, allowing the community to elect all new directors. His suggestion was rejected.

Macadams was appointed to the board in August 1973 to fill the reamining term of Greg Hewlett, who resigned. He was elected to the post last November.

Mrs. Weston was named to the board in January with J. Michael Groshong after the resignations of directors Marguerite K. Harris and Orville Schell.

Two Are Given Jail Time In Police Scuffle

Both a man and a woman convicted of several charges arising from a scuffle with Novato police in June must spend time in jail, a Marin Superior Court judge has ruled.

Billie Landers Robinson, 42, of San Rafael, was given six months, placed on three years' probation, fined $250 and ordered to pay the medical bills of Sgt. Raymond Hill.

And Gurnieth Mae Greene, 41, of Novato, must spend three weekends in jail and pay a $500 fine.

They were sentenced by Judge E. Warren McGuire, who presided over their eight-day jury trial last month. Robinson was convicted of felony assault, drunken driving and giving false information to a policeman, while Mrs. Greene was found guilty of obstructing officers.

Petalumans Get Preference

Petaluma recreation, music and parks commissioners last night directed city staff to draft a policy giving local residents first use of city park facilities.

According to a recreation department spokesman, both residents and nonresidents currently receive permits for picnics and other group activities on a first-come, first-served basis. Often there are more requests for permits than the city has facilities to accommodate.

The policy is to attempt to regulate park use without discouraging nonresidents from planning activities in Petaluma and the commission will consider adopting it at its Dec. 11 meeting.

Ruling Asked On Filante

The Marin Community College District Board yesterday asked for a court ruling on whether Dr. William J. Filante legally may serve both on that board and on the Marin Municipal Water District Board.

The college board last month authorized the lawsuit to clarify Filante's status, and it was filed in Marin Superior Court by the county counsel's office.

There was no indication when a ruling would be forthcoming.

The suit noted that Filante was elected to the college board in 1972 and to the water district board this past June.

Filante maintains he can serve on both boards.

TERMINAL

water-use applicants "appealing," but added that the ferry terminal application met criteria on which the board had granted other new water service.

"We should be spending this hour on developing new water supply," he remarked.

Board president Jack R. Felson indicated he would support water service to the terminal, but only water needed for public health requirements to the terminal itself. Noting "I campaigned fiercely against the terminal," Felson said that other public bodies which had the overall jurisdiction for it had approved it, and he had to assume that the public wanted it.

Water district Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh said that the bridge district had already scaled down its proposed water consumption at the terminal from 24 to 19.85 acre-feet with water district suggestions for water saving methods.

But the board demanded that the bridge district make further cuts before it votes on the water service at its Nov. 27 meeting.

"If it comes back with zero acre-feet it won't matter, if you don't have the votes," MacPhail commented.

But the balance may shift by then. A probable opponent, director Griffin earlier yesterday resigned his seat and is expected to be replaced by director-elect Pamela W. Lloyd.

A proponent of the moratorium, Mrs. Lloyd nevertheless said she would approve the terminal water service, adding that land use issues should be treated by other appropriate boards.

ROCKY

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Pa., told Rockefeller, "You are accused of being generous — a trait which is rare in the District of Columbia."

Earlier, Senate GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin interrupted the hearings to charge that Democrats had been "dillydallying" and "footdragging" because they feared Rockefeller would be "too good a vice president."

The Michigan senator said Rockefeller had "made a mistake or two in his public life" and had willingly admitted it.

"None of us will ever qualify for sainthood," Griffin said.

But the Democrats have delayed action on the nomination for months, he said, and placed in jeopardy the operations of the 25th Amendment. The amendment provides for filling a vice presidential vacancy by presidential appointment and congressional confirmation.

Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., abandoning his usual mild manner, replied that he resented Griffin's "implication that this committee had not been diligent" in acting on the nomination.

Cannon said the FBI's final report on Rockefeller was not received until Nov. 4 and Rockefeller's report on his political contributions of $15.5 million was not received until Monday.

Griffin said the "foot-draggers" were not concerned that Rockefeller would be a bad vice president "but that he will be too good a vice president" and — he implied — a threat do Democratic success in the 1976 presidential election.

He said the 25th Amendment's operations had produced both Rockefeller and President Ford — "two of the finest, ablest, most qualified public servants on the American scene."

A Bitter Exchange Over Palestine

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The inflexibility of Arab guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah cast doubt today on the chances of the U.N. Palestine debate leading to a Middle East peace.

The two men hurled bitter epithets yesterday afternoon at the dramatic opening of the historic U.N. debate on Palestine, hampering behind-the-scenes moves to end the four-war, quarter-century conflict.

Lebanese President Suleiman Franjieh, speaking on behalf of the Arab world, was scheduled to address the General Assembly this afternoon in a crucial speech expected to reveal whether the Arabs would back Arafat all the way.

YOSEF TEKOAH
Israeli ambassador

Arab sources said Franjieh would likely suggest a moderate resolution calling for a Palestinian state, but Arafat's speech raised the possibility of a tough motion, possibly even to oust Israel from the current assembly session.

Havana Radio said Arafat had arrived in Havana at the invitation of Premier Fidel Castro. Arab sources said Arafat would travel to Moscow after a three-day Havana visit for talks with Kremlin leaders.

The guerrilla chief received a standing ovation from most of the delegates after leading off the debate by calling for the creation of a Palestinian nation in which Arab, Jew and Christian could live at peace.

Diplomats in at least 35 delegations walked out as Tekoah took the rostrum to describe the proposal as a call for the destruction of Israel.

Tekoah denounced the Arafat-led Palestine Liberation Organization as "murderers" seeking "to destroy the Jewish state."

Two leading American experts on the Middle East said Arafat's speech hurt the chances of peace in the wartorn region, polarizing the positions of the belligerents.

Columbia University Prof. J. C. Hurwitz said a new war is likely if the assembly adopts Arafat's proposals. John C. Campbell, senior research fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations, cited a "50-50" chance of war.

Tekoah said the U.N. invitation to Arafat amounted to hanging out a sign that "murderers of children are welcome here."

Arafat was the second representative of a non-U.N. member nation to appear before the assembly. Pope Paul VI addressed the body in 1965.

His speech came at a time of increasing economic woes in Israel and unrest in Arab lands occupied by the Jewish state.

A decision to devalue the Israel pound last Sunday touched off bitter rioting in Tel Aviv's slums. Arab youths in the occupied West Bank jeered Israeli soldiers yesterday and tossed rocks at military vehicles.

"Israel will not permit the establishment of PLO authority in any part of Palestine," Tekoah said. "The PLO will not be forced on the Palestinian Arabs. It will not be tolerated by the Jews of Israel."

Russian Artist Shot To Death

MOSCOW (UPI) — A bank guard shot artist Viktor Popkov to death Tuesday thinking he was a thief, friends of Popkov's family said.

Popkov, 42, was a member of the official Soviet Artists Union but Soviet abstract painters looked on him as one of their best friends inside the establishment body.

The friends called the shooting "a tragic accident."

They said Popkov left a building on Gorky Street, Moscow's main highway, at 9 p.m. and opened the door of a waiting auto, apparently thinking it was a taxi.

In fact, the car was transporting money from a bank and a guard inside the car, thinking a robbery was being launched, opened fire with a handgun and killed Popkov on the spot, the friends said.

Israeli Patrols Make Attacks In Lebanon

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli search-and-destroy patrols crossed the border into southern Lebanon today, fought a gunbattle with Arab guerrillas and bombarded a Palestinian refugee camp with mortar fire. The strike followed a day of Arab disorders in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Witnesses in southern Lebanon said Israeli heavy artillery shelled the south Lebanon tobacco market town of Nabatiyeh, housing a Palestine refugee camp 13 miles north of the border, killing three villagers and wounding 15 Lebanese civilians.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said five guerrillas were killed and three suspected Arab hideouts were blown up when the patrols hit Zarubin, a village four and a half miles north of the Lebanese frontier, and fought a gunbattle there.

The attack on Nabatiyeh was one of the heaviest in a long series of Israeli artillery attacks on villages near the border region in recent weeks. It coincided with Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's appearance at the U.N. General Assembly debate on Palestine.

Shortly after dawn, newsmen found weeping women clustered around the wreckage of several houses. Inside one wrecked house, a dead man lay on his bed, covered by a sheet. A human hand and several dead white chickens lay on the roadway outside.

But village life went on apparently as normal and the schools remained open for the children.

Earlier, Arab youths jeered and cursed patrolling West Bank Israeli soldiers and shouted their support for commando leader Yasser Arafat's unprecedented speech at the United Nations General Assembly.

Intensified Israeli troops guarded border areas after Arabs fired Soviet-made rockets into northern Israel and shelled the Dovev settlement near the frontier last night.

The Israeli command said three Katyusha rockets hit Qiryat Shemoa and two others hit Safed. No major damage was reported.

Shopkeepers in the Israeli-occupied town of Nablus staged a general strike yesterday in support of the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

Arab youths, chanting "Palestine is Arab" and "Arafat we are all with you," stayed away from school in Nablus and Halhul yesterday and hurled stones and curses at patrolling troops.

Club-swinging Israeli paratroopers charged the small groups of children and arrested 28 persons on disorderly conduct. Most were released because they were under 17 years of age.

Israeli soldiers in open trucks raced through the streets of the town and broke up even the smallest gatherings.

The West Bank, part of what had been known as Palestine, became part of Jordan in 1948. It has been occupied by Israel since the six day war in 1967.

YE OLD SPELLING CLASSE

Did the Pilgrims really land in San Pablo Bay? A visitor to the fifth and sixth grade classrooms at Santa Margarita School in Terra Linda might wonder. Attired in Pilgrim dress, their classroom decorated and furnished like a 17th century schoolroom, teacher Ann Wyatt and her students participate in an old-fashioned spelling bee. The youngsters found the project was a pretty good way to get into the spirit of the Thanksgiving season.

Griffin Is Quitting Water Board

Dr. L. Martin Griffin yesterday announced he will quit the Marin Municipal Water District Board Monday. (Another water district story, page 1.)

Griffin said he would be unable to complete his term, which will end in January, because he has accepted a full-time position as a public health officer at Sonoma State Hospital and will not be able to attend district board meetings.

The 54-year-old Kentfield physician announced last February that he would not seek reelection to the Division Four seat, which includes Mill Valley, part of Kentfield, Kent Woodlands and Corte Madera east of Highway 101. His former campaign manager, Pamela W. Lloyd of Mill Valley made a successful bid for the seat last June.

Like Griffin in 1973, she ran on a strong environmentalist, anti-growth platform, and supports the district's ban on new water service connections.

At its Nov. 27 meeting the board is expected to appoint Mrs. Lloyd, who would otherwise gain the seat in January, as Griffin's successor. The resignation will not affect the board's majority support for the controversial water service moratorium.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

CONSERVATION — Approved a 10-year water conservation program and authorized a coordinator's position at a total estimated cost of $150,000 per year.

PURCHASE — Approved purchase of a forklift for the Greenbrae pipe yard at a cost of $15,000 and a radio for backup communications at Bon Tempe treatment plant at a cost of $820.

FIRELINES — Approved fire pipeline extensions in San Rafael, Ross and Fairfax. Marin Municipal agreed to divide the $14,630 cost with the City of San Rafael, to pay $7,966 of the Ross installation, the town to pay the remaining $10,688, and $1,636 in Fairfax, the town to pay the remaining $22,964 cost.

TANKS — Awarded contracts to Pacific Wood Tank of Healdsburg for two redwood tanks at a cost of $6,000 and to T. E. Brown and Co. of San Leandro for a top tank for $2,800.

WASTEWATER — Approved agreement with Las Gallinas Sanitary District to divert up to four acre-feet of water per 24-hours for a wastewater treatment plant to be constructed by Marin Municipal. The water district intends to sell the reclaimed water for irrigation.

PAVING — Awarded a contract for $9,256 to W. K. McLellan Co. of San Rafael to pave the access road to Elinor Avenue tank in Mill Valley.

Things In Nome Back To Normal

NOME, Alaska (UPI) — Operations gradually returned to normal today in this Arctic town in the wake of a severe storm that pushed the waters of the Bering Sea five feet deep into the downtown area.

Electricity, communications facilities and fresh water supplies were knocked out of commission Tuesday and about 50 persons were forced to take refuge in a school house on higher ground.

But power and communications were restored yesterday after the waters receded.

Doctor Spreads Good News, Bad About Flu

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — First the good news:

The nation is in an interpandemic period right now, which means that the flu bug expected this winter won't be the universal type that hits practically everyone.

But now the bad news:

Dr. Edwin D. Kilbourne of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine of City University, New York, warns that "another new virus is expected by the end of the 1970s."

Dr. Kilbourne told a conference on flu here this week that the flu that has swept the country in 10-year cycles since the early 1900s is made up of new and unknown viruses, and each time it strikes, medical science has to develop new vaccines to contain it.

The problem is that it's impossible to pre-develop a vaccine until the exact type of virus is identified which doesn't occur until persons start feeling the miseries symptomatic of the disease.

In the flu epidemic of 1918, when thousands died, they expired from a secondary cause, pneumonia, primarily because medical science did not have enough knowledge of the disease to develop methods to fight it, he said.

"For the past 30 years, we've had effective vaccines but we still have problems with vaccines."

From 1918, the flu scourge was pandemic again in 1929, 1940, 1950 and in the early 60s. Whatever the bug, it still has Oriental titles — Asian flu, Hong Kong flu — mainly because most of the flu viruses emanate from Asia. The reasons are still unknown, said Kilbourne.

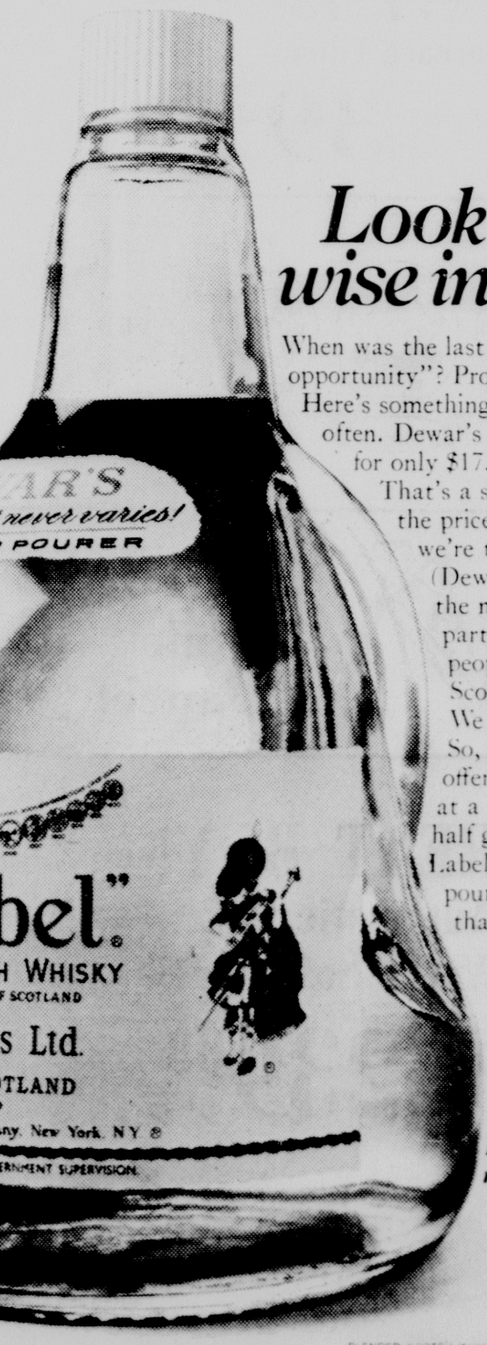

Russell To Refuse Lameduck Bonus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Newton R. Russell, who is running for a Senate vacancy after losing his Assembly seat, says he will refuse a bonus salary payment due lameduck legislators next month.

"It is not proper that taxpayers should pay for services not rendered," the Burbank Republican said yesterday.

Dewar's "White Label" half gallons • $17.99

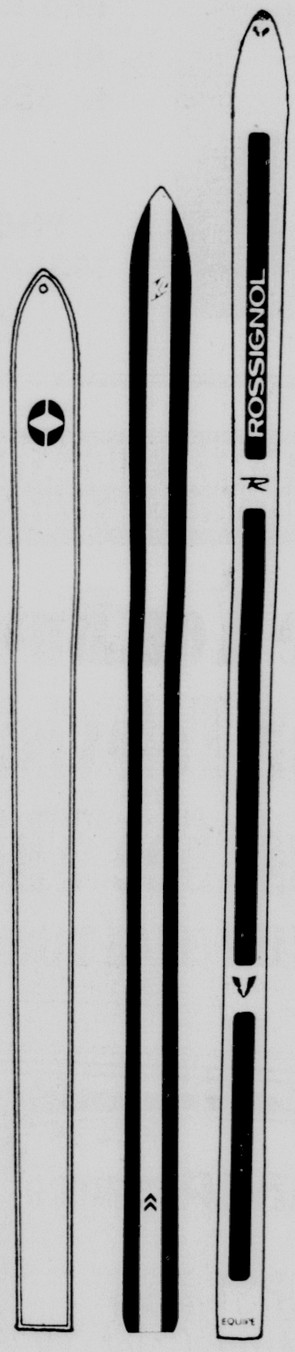

Look at it as a wise investment.

When was the last time you heard of a "real opportunity"? Probably not for quite awhile. Here's something that doesn't happen very often. Dewar's "White Label" half gallons for only $17.99 during the holidays. That's a savings of almost $3.00 over the price of two quarts. You see, we're trying to win over California. (Dewar's "White Label" is already the most popular Scotch in many parts of the country. After all, people know a great authentic Scotch when they taste one.) We want you to try Dewar's now. So, for a limited time, we're offering our economical half gallon at a special price. Pick up several half gallons of Dewar's "White Label" with easy-handling, built-in pourers. It's one investment that's easily liquidated.

Dewar's never varies.

DAVID W. HEESCH
Admits extortion plot

SHEILA HEESCH
Also pleads guilty

Power Line Bombings Admitted By Trucker

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A truck driver confessed to federal charges in a $1 million extortion plot and said his only motive was the money.

David W. Heesch, 34, pleaded guilty to two counts of dynamiting Bonneville Power Administration high voltage transmission line towers and one count of mailing a threatening letter — demanding money and threatening to blackout the city of Portland.

Heesch's wife, Sheila, also 34, pleaded guilty to one charge of mailing the extortion letter and two counts of aiding and abetting the dynamiting.

They said no one else was involved and no more dynamite had been set.

U.S. District Court Judge Otto J. Skopil Jr. set sentencing for Dec. 9. Heesch could be given a maximum of 22 years in prison and $20,500 fine. Mrs. Heesch could be sentenced to up to 12 years in prison and fined up to $12,500.

In all, 11 BLA towers were blasted between Sept. 24 and Oct. 18 with total damage estimated at $150,000. In addition, extra security imposed after the bombings cost $20,000 a day.

No Contest Plea In Theft

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patty Duke's former business manager, Joseph P. Stitch, 34, of Dallas, pleaded no contest yesterday to a charge of stealing $34,000 from the actress while he had control of her finances.

Another of Miss Duke's business managers, Robert Brownstein, 33, of Hollywood, earlier was placed on five years probation after pleading guilty to charges he and Stitch siphoned money from Miss Duke's accounts to their own from October, 1970 to January, 1972. The discrepancies were found by Miss Duke's husband, actor John Astin.

Freezer Is Raided For Ice Cream Cups

Children broke into a freezer in the multipurpose room at Deer Park School on Porteus Avenue and ate an estimated $5 worth of ice cream cups stored there, Fairfax police reported.

The burglary was believed to have occurred Monday or Tuesday, according to police.

Another View Of Life In America

(Editor's note: The writer is foreign news editor of the Czechoslovak national weekly, Nove Slovo and has spent the past two weeks observing operation of the Independent-Journal as part of a State Department-sponsored orientation visit to the U.S.)

By MICHAEL STASZ

Once, on a mid-August morning, I woke with a feeling that something was wrong. The internal alarm clock somewhere in the depth of my mind had left me in the lurch and I felt I was late. Sounds from the street only strengthened my uneasiness — there was busier traffic than usual. In the darkness I went to the window and opened the blinds: shocking view. Instead of the heights of the Little Carpathians and the familiar skyline of my neighborhood in Bratislava, there was something like a white cathedral atop a hill, a sea of houses, a strange fire department, an unfamiliar station. Below me passed trucks and vans with signs in a foreign language.

End of the dream. My internal regulator was all right, and so was the world even if seeming changed. I was in America, in Washington, D.C., for the first time in my life.

It all started on another morning more than a month ago, the day before the Fourth of July, when I arrived at my office in our weekly newspaper.

"A gentleman is waiting for you," said our secretary.

The gentleman was the first secretary of the U.S. Embassy in our capital city, Prague, and he brought an invitation to visit United States for more than three months.

To go, or not to go was the question. The professional part of me answered without any hesitation — yes. On the personal side, however, not only was there a family to leave for too long a time, but the country seemed too far and strange for me.

My only contact and knowledge came from the pages of American newspapers, magazines and movies. The picture was not pink: the U.S.A. is a country with a high crime rate; living there is dangerous, expensive. A different, unfriendly probably hostile society faced me.

But there was something stronger than fear: That chance of personal experience, that chance given once in a lifetime, that every journalist is obliged to grasp. I agreed.

Now, after visiting 10 states, comes the time of farewell, the time to say good-by to this country, which I discovered for myself and for the readers of our weekly at home.

While in America I have applied the fundamental rule for a newsman abroad: Waste as little time as possible in hotel rooms, get out and discover the country by walking the streets and countryside, seeing, meeting the people.

So I walked — sometimes alone, sometimes in the crowd. I walked in the daytime and in the night, up and down Manhattan and along the Freedom Trail in Boston and across Atlanta and New Orleans, and upon the shores of both oceans.

It is time to say good-bye to this huge, controversial country, a country on one hand of large cities which probably will become less and less livable and on the other hand, a country of small autumn-scented towns, visited in Indiana, New Mexico and California.

And now that it is time to leave America, I have to confess I don't know what it all really means.

"The (American) nation is more integrated than ever before," said one of my friends in Washington. Is it true? I simply cannot imagine, then, what the situation was 10 or 25 years ago when the nation was "less integrated."

Well, everybody in America comes from somewhere. And although the Mayflower Pilgrims landed more than 350 years ago, there still is no common national culture, sometimes even no common language. During my staying in Atlanta, I saw a rally of citizens under the name Affirmation Atlanta, people trying to construct a more integrated community. In the same city in the short period of two to three weeks, there were festivals of Georgian Greeks and Italians, followed by a doodlesack Scottish feast on nearby Stone Mountain.

Impressions from this visit are various, sometimes traumatic, but on the whole better than I expected three months ago. There were hundreds of friendly hand-shakings, tons of cordial invitations, perfectly organized meetings with representatives of various social, ethnic, racial and even political groups.

But there was also exposure to the tremendous influence of commercials upon the public, unhealthy high consumption and waste.

The dual impression is best expressed in the story of my camera, stolen from the locked hotel room in New Orleans and the perfect work of the police who saw to its return. But to be robbed for the first time in nearly forty years and many travels, I have had to travel across half the globe to America.

It is too soon to assess my visit. I hope only that my visit here and talks with Americans can help, despite criticism, lead to better understanding between our countries and for me to better understand this country's people and the politics of their government.

AT TIMES EVANGELISTIC

Eloquent Arafat Plays To Crowd

By H. D. QUIGG

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Beating the air with a right forefinger like a conductor with a baton, a surprisingly clean-shaven Yasser Arafat made an eloquent but low-key speech to the General Assembly yesterday.

Wielding his firm, penetrating baritone in solemn cadences and with the assurance of a gifted speaker, the guerrilla chieftan, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, opened the General Assembly Palestine debate.

He was at times evangelistic in fervor, at times the suave political campaigner, but mostly professorial in delivery.

He took the marble podium at 11:40 a.m. as most of the delegates stood and applauded, and he responded with an old-fashioned hand-clasped victory salute, then grinned and waved.

His customary stubble of a beard was missing, but a modest black mustache remained. He doffed his dark glasses but not his black-and-white checkered Arab headdress. He wore a creamy light jacket, brown pants, and light brown soft boots.

He finished, to standing applause, at 1:10 p.m. and again waved his clasped hands above his head. Then, with an actor's aplomb, he draped his left forearm over a high-backed chair while standing to receive the assembly presidents thanks.

Directly in front of the podium, 18 feet across a stretch of open carpet, three blue and three buff seats stared at him — vacant. A sign on the desk, facing him, proclaimed — "Israel." The Israeli delegates didn't show.

Of the 824 delegate seats on the floor, only 11 were empty aside from the Israeli section. Speaking in Arabic — while the U.N. translators delivered his words in several languages to delegate earphones — Arafat held the audience's strict attention during the hour and a half.

He appealed "directly to the American people" to support his people, and with campaign election — time fervor he evoked the ghosts of Washington, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson. His finger was upthrust and jabbing — like that of an evangelist — when he said that "the justice of the cause determines the right to struggle."

His gestures were many but nearly always muted, except when he spread his palms and waved his arms or patted his heart.

The heart-pat came when he said: "When we speak of our common hopes for the Palestine of tomorrow, we include in our perspective all Jews now living in Palestine who choose to live there in peace . . ."

In the end, he raised both hands high when he said, "I appeal to you to enable our people to establish national independent sovereignty over its own land. Today, Mr. President, I have come bearing an olive branch and a freedom fighter's gun. Do not let the olive branch fall from my hand."

Zaire Wants Close Rapport With Angola

By HENRY S. HAYWARD
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

KINSHASA, Zaire — Zaire clearly wants close relations with neighboring Angola when that Portuguese African possession gains independence.

President Mobutu Sese Seko has been using his office to ensure that Angola's liberation leaders based here are in shape to negotiate with the government in Lisbon.

It obviously will be to Zaire's best interests to have a stable regime in Angola upon independence — and to have whatever leadership emerges there friendly and beholden to Mobutu.

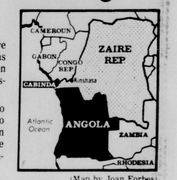

One major factor which ensures Mobutu's interest in Angolan developments is that an important portion of Zaire's copper is dependent on the Portuguese Benuela railway for movement of ore from the Shaba (formerly Katanga) copper belt to the Atlantic coast ports of Lobito or Benguela.

Most of this line runs through Angola and Mobutu does not want to lose rights to the route.

Another vital matter is Cabinda, the rich oil-producing enclave of Portugal which lies just north of the short Zaire coastline. The bulk of Angola lies to the south.

No one doubts that either Zaire or the Congo Republic, another neighbor state, would be happy to take over Cabinda for itself. But Mobutu has said he would not take so imperialist a step as to grab it.

So the two nations, plus Gabon, now are supporting the idea that Cabinda should be a separate state. This idea naturally does not appeal either to Portugal or the Angola freedom fighters, who do not want to lose the rich enclave.

(Map by Joan Forbes)

Some sources, however, suspect the separate Cabinda movement was developed in Kinshasa primarily to keep it out of the hands of President Marien N'Gouabi's Congo across the river.

The intense interest in Cabinda, as well as the reliance of the Angolan rail route, has caused increasing involvement by the Zaire leader.

Reports here indicate that closed-door talks already have been held in Kinshasa between Holden Roberto, leader of the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), and Daniel Chipenda, leader of the Maoist wing of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), on one side and Portuguese representatives on the other.

Mobutu, it seems clear, would like to see a team on Angola liberationists negotiating with Lisbon.

This is in spite of the fact that Roberto is regarded as his personal favorite. The Zaire president is credited here with having obtained Chinese assistance for Robert's forces in the form of a military training mission.

Chipenda's move from his former base in Lusaka, Zambia, to Kinshasa shows that his segment of the MPLA could not afford to let Roberto's FNLA have things all its own way here. Mobutu seems to have accpeted Chipenda's right to be heard on Angolan matters.

Some informants believe Mobutu also would willingly include Agostino Neto, leader of the pro-Moscow MPLA wing, who is based just across the Zaire river in Brazzaville, capital of the Congo Republic, if Neto wishes to cooperate.

Signs that Neto would join in consultations with his two rivals have been few, even though he too, is anxious to hold negotiations with Lisbon.

College Has Unusual Open House

By ERNEST MURPHY

Sonoma State College's science night program yesterday wasn't any run-of-the-mill open house — a card shark computer and a skunk-skinning professor saw to that.

The two exhibits were the most popular with the 300 or so Marin, Sonoma and Napa County students who came to the Rohnert Park campus to see what its science departments have to offer.

The skunk skinner, John Arnold of the biology department, held forth in a laboratory that looked like a medicine man's talisman warehouse or an exterminator's showroom, depending on your point of view.

All around him were laid out, as they say in the undertaking business, mummified remains of squirrels, rats, gophers, badgers, raccoons and, well, a lot of dead birds. Plus a few rubber lizards and snakes.

While explaining how the animals are preserved for further study, Arnold dispelled the mystery surrounding those people one occasionally sees along the highway, carefully collecting the poor animals which strayed into the paths of cars or trucks.

"We use a lot of your road kills this way," he said, hefting a nicely stuffed starling in his hand.

As Arnold revealed it, the technique was simple, although definitely not for the squeamish — birds and small mammals are skinned much like people are skinned of tight sweaters, with the skin ending up inside out. Then a wad of cotton or other filling is shaped like a body and the skin is put on and zipped up with a stitch along one side.

The rubber reptiles, it turned out, are made by molding the animal in plaster and then coating the mold with a liquid latex originally concocted to help policemen copy footprints and tire tracks. After it becomes firm, the latex is pulled from the mold and carefully painted.

While Arnold exhibited his specimens, a blackjack game went on down the hall, with an electronic marvel the size of a clock-radio taking on all comers.

The odds were running strongly in the house's favor last night. In fact, it appeared the computer never lost a round.

The students, ranging from 8-year-olds to high school and junior college age, enthusiastically used the computer's keyboard to place wagers.

The machine was the dealer, and its fast-talking patter ticked out of a slot on a printout tape.

"Would you like a card?" the computer asked.

"Yes," the young player rapped out on the keys.

"You have 20," smirked the computer, "and I have 11."

Lights flashed and circuits hummed as the solid state bandit closed in for the kill.

"I take a card," it announced. "—the queen of hearts. I win! I win! I win!"

At the end of every round the machine restrained its glee long enough to ask if the challenger wanted to play another hand. The crowd around the computer never thinned, and the automaton's tote board showed the ever-increasing number of hypothetical dollars it was winning.

Chemistry professor Donald Marshall, chief organizr of the night's program, was on hand in his white coat and a wizard's cap decorated with stars and planets.

In between shows he talked about the purpose of the science night.

It has been a yearly affair since the college opened a decade ago, he said, although only in recent years has it been held in the evening. "As you can see," Marshall said, gesturing toward the youths packing his classroom, "it's a more advantageous hour."

"Mainly the purpose is recruitment and public relations. This gives us a chance to bring students from the area to see the college, and it helps us entice the good ones to study here," he said.

Marshall agreed that Sonoma State's image is that of a liberal arts school, and residents of surrounding counties often don't realize it has a strong science program.

"Our chemistry department, for instance, is accredited by the American Chemical Society — they don't exactly pass those out," he said.

Besides chemistry, other departments participating in this year's science night were mathematics, biology, physics and astronomy, nursing, geology and the campus computer center.

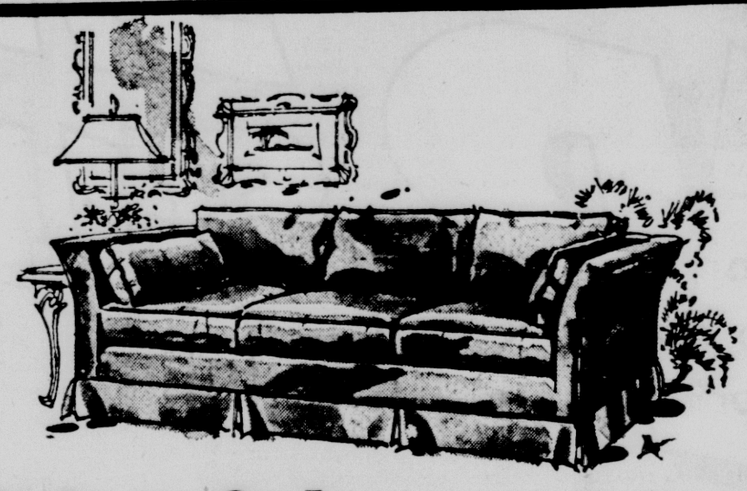

Peru Asks Withdrawal Of U.S. Peace Corpsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government of Peru has asked the United States to withdraw all 137 Peace Corps workers from that country, a State Department spokesman said today.

Peru asked the U.S. embassy in Lima today to have the American workers withdrawn as quickly as possible, saying that their work, primarily agricultural development projects, can be done just as well by Peruvians.

But State Department officials denied as "totally untrue" an assertion by Peruvian President Juan Velasco Alvarado that two U.S. officials were asked to leave Peru in the late 1960s because they were found to be CIA agents. Velasco said his government has expelled several CIA officials since he took over in 1963.

The two officials mentioned by Velasco were Ernest V. Siracusa, who was the No.2 man in the U.S. embassy in Peru in the late 1960s, and Frank V. Ortiz Jr., who was head of the political section of the embassy.

Almonte Club Taps Roberts

Thomas C. Roberts, civil engineer and 10-year-resident of the Almonte area, has been picked as president of the Almonte Improvement Club.

Roberts said he will work on getting roads upgraded in the area and on getting repairs for the Almonte Junction parking area used by bus commuters. He said he also wants the club to help in upgrading the appearance of businesses in Tam Junction.

Roberts, 44, moved to California in 1955 and to Marin in 1962. He, his wife and three children reside at 115 Highland Avenue.

He studied engineering at Montana State College and the Montana School of Mines and now works as a civil engineer for the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency.

Other officers recently chosen for the club are: Roberts' wife, Marjorie, secretary; Patricia Ness, of 238 Perry Street, vice president, and Henry G. Coit of 251 Perry Street, treasurer.

Housing Unit Will Discuss Pending Suit

A special meeting to discuss the status of a lawsuit and the impact of new federal housing legislation will be held today by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the community room of the Kruger Pines senior housing project, 47 North Knoll Road, Mill Valley.

The board will hold a closed session on the suit brought against it by Marin Legal Aid and a number of Marin City residents. The suit is an attempt to have low-cost housing included in the proposed Richardson Highlands development on the ridge overlooking Marin City.

The board, in open session, will discuss impact of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, which drastically revises the way the department of Housing and Urban Development funnels funds to local agencies.

Burton Puts Price On A Boy

LONDON (UPI) — Richard Burton says in a magazine interview he once planned to offer $47,000 for a suitable woman to bear him a son. He made the comment several weeks before he announced his intention to marry Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia.

In the interview, to be published in the Nov. 23 issue of Woman's Own magazine, Burton said he longed for a son. "I'm a bit sick of girls," he is quoted as saying.

"I think Princess Elizabeth will read the interview with more than a woman's normal curiosity," Woman's Own editor Jane Reed said. Burton also specified the age the woman must be — between 28 and 38. "At 38, Princess Elizabeth just qualifies for the job," she said.

Nixon Sues To Block Tape Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for Richard M. Nixon charged today that a new White House agreement allowing Watergate prosecutors to search his files is a "flagrant intrusion" on the former president's rights.

The attorneys asked U.S. District Court to issue a temporary restraining order to block what they described as the "search and seizure" agreement reached last week between attorneys for President Ford and the special prosecutors's office.

"The ... agreement is a flagrant intrusion on Mr. Nixon's rights both as a citizen and as former President of the United States," Nixon lawyer Herbert J. Miller Jr. said in a legal brief.

"We have previously argued before this court that many of these presidential materials contain, embody, reflect or constitute confidential communications of the President during his term in office."

As such, Miller said, Nixon's old presidential tapes and papers are protected from disclosure unless they are subpoenaed and a court is convinced they are needed for criminal prosecutions under the Supreme Court's historic decision last October.

"Under the circumstances, to permit the special prosecutor — a prosecuting agency of the federal government — to rummage through these personal materials would violate not only Mr. Nixon's rights as a former president but also his right against unreasonable searches and seizures of his property," the brief said.

The agreement, signed last weekend by representatives of the White House, the Special Prosecutor's office, the General Services Administration and the Secret Service, would allow the prosecutors to search Nixon's files for any unindexed material needed in current criminal investigations.

This would bypass the current requirement for a subpoena of specific materials.

If approved by U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey, the agreement would supplant an earlier pact made between Nixon and the White House last September when the former president was pardoned from any wrongdoing while in office. The special prosecutor's office was not consulted in that agreement.

Nation's Midlands Blanketed By Season's First Snowstorm

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A powerful snowstorm —the first of the season —dumped heavy snows across the nation's midlands last night and early today, glazing highways and touching off a flurry of accidents.

A near record 5.4 inches of snow fell on Detroit, the heaviest for this date since 1951. At Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, police were called out yesterday to disperse a "snowball riot" in which 200-250 students pelted campus buildings. No arrests were made.

At least three persons died in weather-related traffic mishaps.

Eugene Holmes, 48, of Maywood, Ill., was killed yesterday when his truck collided with an auto on icy pavement near St. Charles, Ill.

An 18-year-old Iowa youth was killed when he lost control of his car on a snow-slicked highway in northwestern Iowa and struck a truck. A Calumet City, Ill., youth also was killed.

Chicago expressways were tangled by multiple-car accidents. One 10-car pileup on the Eisenhower Expressway left one person injured. A 20-car crash on the Illinois Tollway tied up traffic but there were no injuries.

A wide belt of snow clogged the upper Great Lakes Region, stretching from Iowa across Illinois to Indiana and reaching into Michigan and Ohio.

Moline, Ill., reported five inches of snow, four inches piled up in Peru, Ind., and Hancock, Mich., in the upper Peninsula, got eight inches of new snow. Several Iowa cities reported as much as four inches of snow.

The National Weather Service termed the storm the first major snowstorm of the season.

"The snowballers are out already," said one Chicago cab driver as he wiped the snow from the spot where a snowball had struck his passenger side window. "The kids are lining up on the streets and looking for targets."

Chicago reported only an inch of snow, but heavier snowfalls were reported in the south and south suburbs. The National Weather Service said four and a half inches of snow was reported in far south suburban Crete.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect today for northern Indiana, southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Another storm dumped three inches of snow on the mountains of Great Smoky National Forest in Tennessee and North Carolina. U.S. 441 running through the park was temporarily closed while the snow was cleared away.

KENNETH UNDERWOOD
A criminal complaint

2 Arrested In School Text Furor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A man and a woman today were arrested while picketing a public school but officials remained confident that heavy security would prevent renewed violence in the Kanawha County antitextbook furor.

School officials reported that school bus drivers were being intimidated by protesters and some drivers were refusing to work. Several buses have been raked by gunfire recently and yesterday a police car escorting a school bus loaded with children was hit by sniper fire.

State Police today arrested Jerry W. Foster, 25, and an unidentified woman, as they walked a picket line outside Anne Bailey Elementary School.

The woman was charged with carrying a deadly weapon —an aerosol can of tear gas —using profanity and resisting arrest.

Foster was charged with obstructing an officer and willful disruption of government property.

Schools Supt. Kenneth Underwood, target of a criminal complaint sworn out by a protester, said he was "very confident" that peace would reign with troopers and sheriff's deputies patrolling backroads in "strategic areas."

A policeman from the nearby Cedar Grove yesterday served Underwood with the warrant accusing him of contributing to the delinquency of minors by introducing "obscene" textbooks to the schools.

"Except for scattered picketing in the eastern part of the county and the two arrests, it's a good day," said Board of Education spokesman Mike Bell.

"Most of the drivers are calling in and saying they won't work because of intimidation," Bell said. "They (the protesters) are really putting pressure on some of the drivers."

For the second straight day, State Police and sheriff's deputies were out in force.

Trouble flared Tuesday when school authorities returned to classrooms and libraries more than 300 books fundamentalists feel are anti-Christian and anti-American. Snipers fired shots at a bus that had only the driver aboard. He was not injured.

Paper Tells Of Financial Difficulties

The Ark newspaper of Tiburon revealed in a front page story yesterday that it is sinking financially and had filed on Nov. 8 in U.S. District Court in San Francisco a petition under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy act to allow the weekly to reorganize.

The paper's financial distress has come as a shock in Tiburon and Belvedere, where it managed to win extensive advertising away from its chief competitor, the Ebbtide, and carried half the legal advertising for the City of Tiburon.

According to the Ark's financial confession, illustrated by a drawing of a sinking ship, the paper will go on publishing and operating its printing business during reorganization.

The article notes that on Oct. 31, the paper was notified that the Internal Revenue Service was about to close it down for failure to pay several quarters of employee withholding taxes. However, since then, the IRS has agreed to give the paper 90 days to pay its debt.

The financial problems have led to extensive staff layoffs and a shakeup in the board of directors. Board president and publisher Richard L. Sprague of Tiburon resigned and was replaced by James Barclay of Tiburon. However, Sprague has remained as a staff member.

Under the reorganization, David Kirchhoff of Tiburon was made the paper's general manager, and Tony Lewis of San Francisco was named editor.

However, Lewis reported today that he left the paper Sunday after a dispute with stockholders who did not want the story on financial problems to run.

Yesterday, two former officers of the company also filed suit in Marin Superior Court seeking $40,000 in compensation and damages from the Ark Publishing Co. and Sprague.

Gerald and Margaret Gordon of Tiburon complained that Sprague owed them repayment of a $500 loan given in March 1973 and $15,000 in compensation for services performed while Gordon was on the board of directors and Mrs. Gordon was secretary of the company and a writer for the paper. They also are seeking $25,000 in punitive damages.

Emissions Laws Freeze Is Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — General Motors executive E. E. Nelson has called for a three-year moratorium on new California vehicle emission regulations to permit time for a thorough evaluation of their costs and benefits.

Meeting stringent vehicle emission standards proposed for 1977 by the California Air resources Board would result in increased costs to consumers, the GM assistant director of automotive emission control said here yesterday.

Meeting the standards would also result in a fuel economy penalty on 1975 cars sold in California, Nelson asserted.

Japanese Radicals Attack U.S., Russian Embassies

Police guarding the buildings arrested five attackers at the U.S. Embassy and three at the Soviet compound. All wore red helmets bearing the name "Marxist Youth League," which authorities described as a radical left-wing group.

Police said four officers on duty outside the U.S. Embassy were injured. They said about 10 window panes at the Soviet Embassy a few blocks away were damaged.

Officials have increased the number of uniformed policemen on patrol in recent days as a precautionary measure against any incidents during Ford's visit to Japan before the U.S.-Soviet summit meeting.

Ford is scheduled to stop in Japan Nov. 18-22. He is then scheduled to stop briefly in South Korea before flying to the Soviet port of Vladivostok to meet Brezhnev on Nov. 23-24.

There have been several protest marches in the past few weeks against Ford's visit and Japan's Socialist and Communist parties, who oppose the U.S. role of military protector of Asia's non-Socialist nations, have promised more.

Leftists forced cancellation of an attempt by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to visit Japan in 1960, but the demonstrations this time are expected to be smaller.

Edwin O. Reischauer, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, said today the presidential trip to Tokyo is "vastly important symbolically" and "indicates America's intent to turn itself more fully to Japan."

"For about four years under the Nixon administration, this relationship was allowed to deteriorate," Reischauer told newsmen. "Then Nixon did decide on the Japan visit and Mr. Ford carried on with it."

Worker Gets Benefits On Company's Intention

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state has ruled a person cannot be refused unemployment benefits for quitting a job when the employer has announced the intention to lay the worker off, it was learned yesterday.

The precedent-setting decision by the state Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board overturned a referee's ruling that Roger M. Lewis, El Monte, had disqualified himself for benefits even though Oroweat Baking Co. of Montebello told him he would be terminated.

At issue was Lewis' failure to return to work after lunch when the company told him he would be laid off at the end of the eight-hour work day.

The referee had ruled that Lewis "voluntarily left" the job "without good cause."

However, the appeals board said the refusal of the company to continue Lewis' employment made the firm the "moving party" and therefore responsible for the employment termination.

News Privacy Right Of Individuals Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is taking another look at the conflict between an individual's right to privacy and the public's right to know.

For the second time this week, the court heard arguments yesterday on a suit seeking damages for invasion of privacy by the news media.

The outcome of the two cases could forge new right-of-privacy guidelines in the wake of a decision last June which curbed press protection in libel cases.

In the case argued yesterday, a West Virginia woman claimed her privacy was violated by what she said was a false article describing the effect on her family of her husband's death in a bridge collapse.

A jury awarded her damages, but an appeals court struck down the verdict.

The appellate court's decision rested on 10 years of Supreme Court rulings in the fields of libel and privacy.

The court has held that public officials or well-known persons who sue for libel must prove that the publishers of the material knew it was false or recklessly disregarded its truth or falsity.

In 1967, it extended the same rule to persons suing for invasion of privacy because of inaccurate accounts of their involvement in newsworthy events.

In 1971, the high court extended the rule, as far as libel is concerned, to obscure persons temporarily thrust into the public eye.

The Houston Astrodome's 6,600 tons of air conditioning circulate 2.5 million cubic feet of air each minute.

15 Per Cent Interest On Home Loans Is Seen

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The interest rates on real estate loans may reach 15 per cent by 1976, says California's savings and loan commissioner.

"One thing is certain," said Edward H. Barker. "Interest rates will not be decreasing in the near future."

The view was expressed yesterday at a hearing of the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance. Fifty persons attended the session called to examine costs of conducting property transactions.

Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, said the committee which he heads is preparing legislation to modify state property transaction laws to deal with inflation.

In his testimony Barker said 11 per cent may be the "psychological limit" which many home buyers are willing to pay.

Insurance companies which traditionally have furnished money for commercial buildings could ease the picture by helping private housing as well, he said.

Youth Is Sentenced In Burglaries

An 18-year-old Novato youth linked to several heroin-related burglaries has been sentenced to the California Youth Authority by a Superior Court judge.

Judge Charles Read Best ordered John Garfield Beaubier to the state program despite pleas from the youth that he be sent to the Delancey Street Foundation in San Francisco.

Beaubier admitted burglarizing two Novato dental offices and Grace Lutheran Church in Novato. Counts involving burglaries at two other dental offices were dismissed by Judge Best.

Beaubier also admitted counts of malicious mischief at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato and petty theft in the stealing of a pair of pants from Macy's in San Rafael.

In a handwritten letter to Judge Best, Beaubier said he has used various drugs for more than five years and became heavily involved in heroin after leaving the Marine Corps earlier this year.

GEORGE S. BROWN
Called to White House

GOP Shakes Up Its Leadership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Mary Louise Smith announced a staff shakeup at the Republican National Committee today and plans for a major party conference next spring to rally GOP leadership for the 1976 campaigns.

"Obviously, in the wake of last week's election, we have to encourage and build the enthusiasm within our party, strengthen the organization of some of our party groups that have fallen into disarray and reshape the image of the Republican Party and what it stands for in the minds of the said at a news conference.

The Smith plan, which includes a change of top professional staff at Republican National Committee headquarters, emphasizes organization, candidate recruitment and money-raising.

The "leadership conference" to be held March 6-8 here will be conducted in conjunction with a Republican National Committee meeting and should attract 1,000 to 1,500 GOP leaders from across the country, she said.

In staff changes, Mrs. Smith appointed Eddie Mahe Jr., political director of the national committee, to the new position of executive director, and replaced Robert Rousek with G. Norman Bishop, a political field representative, as director of communications.

Party co-chairman Richard Obenshain will take over operation of the committee's state services division from staff member Richard Thaxton. Thaxton will continue directing committee research and the political activities previously directed by Mahe. Charles Peckham, Mahe's deputy, will become director of field operations.

On Display

New monochrome oil paintings by Don Jackson of San Rafael will be on display from Tuesday through Nov. 25 in the office of Red Carpet Realtors, 661 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Law Bothered By Reward

CARY, N.C. (UPI) — Signs posted by a local shopping center owner offering a $500 reward to anyone killing a burglar inside have the local police chief worried.

Police Chief J.W. Boles said yesterday anyone shooting a burglar would be subject to a possible murder charge and "one heck of a liability suit could come out of that."

David J. Martin posted the signs at the South Hill Shopping Mall this week. They also offer $200 for burglars brought in alive.

How U.S. Food Exports May Have Hurt Hungry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — American food exports to underdeveloped nations may have slowed efforts to feed the world's hungry, an International Harvester vice president said today.

American aid, in the form of food exports, "has caused a lot of the developing nations not to do as much for themselves as they could have," said Omer G. Voss, executive vice president of one of the world's largest producers of mechanized agricultural equipment.

"We must find ways for a number of developing nations to either develop their own agricultural capabilities or develop other resources which will earn for them the foreign exchange needs to supply them with food," Voss said in remarks prepared for delivery to the Sacramento Rotary Club.

Voss cited inflation, fuel shortages, fertilizer shortages and a lack of awareness of the "fundamental importance of agriculture" as obstacles to the development of agriculture in other countries.

Ford Rebukes Brown For Semitic Remark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford summoned Chairman George S. Brown of the Joint Chiefs of Staff into the Oval Office today and rebuked him for saying publicly that Jews have too much influence in the United States.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters aboard Air Force One en route to Las Vegas that Ford, who is fully "aware of the public reaction to this," met with Brown for 10 minutes before leaving on a trip to the West.

Ford did not fire Brown, the nation's top military man, and Brown did not tender his resignation, Nessen said.

"I know of no plans for him not to cotinue," Nessen said.

Nessen said it would not be "proper" for him to repeat the exact words which the President used with Brown. But he said they reflected the tone of the White House statement yesterday, which described Brown's remarks as "illadvised and poorly handled."

Asked by reporters if the President "rebuked" Brown during their meeting, Nessen replied, "I wouldn't discourage you from saying that."

Brown's remarks, which raised a public furor yesterday, were made in a question and answer session Oct. 10 with students at Duke University. He said "the Jewish influence in this country ... is so strong, you wouldn't believe it," and added that Jews own the banks and newspapers.

Acknowledging that his remarks could be interpreted as anti-Semitic, Brown yesterday issued a public apology.

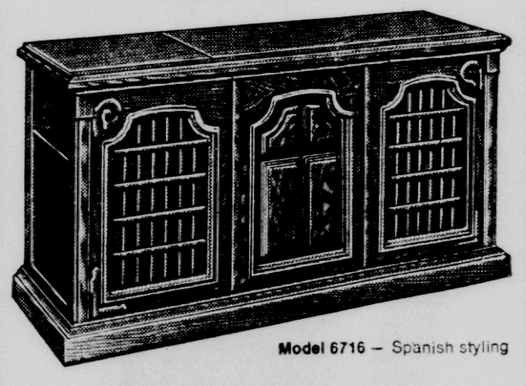

Nessen emphasized that Brown "neither makes nor articulates American foreign policy."

Nessen said the White House did not learn of Brown's remarks until Monday night, after the Washington Post called Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to comment.

City Told To Pay Expense For Suit

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — In a precedent-setting move, Solano County Superior Court Judge Reymond J. Sherwin has ordered the City of Benicia to pay legal expenses of a private citizen who successfully sued the city to make it obey environmental laws.

The citizen, Neel S. Rich, was represented by attorney John R. Wolf of San Rafael. The suit forced the city to hire consultants to prepare an environmental impact report on a Benicia firm's proposal to remodel a Victorian era home into offices and build apartments next to it. City officials had adopted a "negative declaration" holding that no impact report was needed.

Judge Sherwin in a seven-page memorandum wrote that federal courts already have ruled that citizens or groups such as the Sierra Club are entitled to legal expenses when they successfully sue federal agencies to make the agencies obey the laws. "Pro bono (in the public good) lawsuits by private parties need encouragement" on the state level, too Sherwin wrote.

Wolf told the Independent-Journal that unless the ruling is overturned on appeal, it will help citizens and public interest groups find private attorneys willing to help them sue official agencies to make them heed or enforce laws for the public good.

Store Loses $7,000 In Loot

More than $7,000 in sporting goods — sleeping bags, down jackets, backpacks and tennis balls — were reported stolen early yesterday morning from a trailer outside The Seasons sports shop, 40 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo.

Police said a lock on the trailer had been sawed off to permit entry.

The trailer was used to carry extra inventory for the main store, police said.

French Feeling Pinch Of Wildcat Strikes

PARIS (UPI) — Garbage piled up on the rainy streets of Paris today, the postman never rang and hospital patients had little service in the wildcat strikes plaguing France.

The nation's two Communist-dominated largest unions continued the strikes in what government leaders have charged is a deliberate political move attempting to topple the five-month-old regime of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Gas and electricity today was cut in the north of France. Employees of the post office and telegraph services entered their 29th day of a strike and refused government appeals to return to work.

Negotiations in all the strikes remained deadlocked.

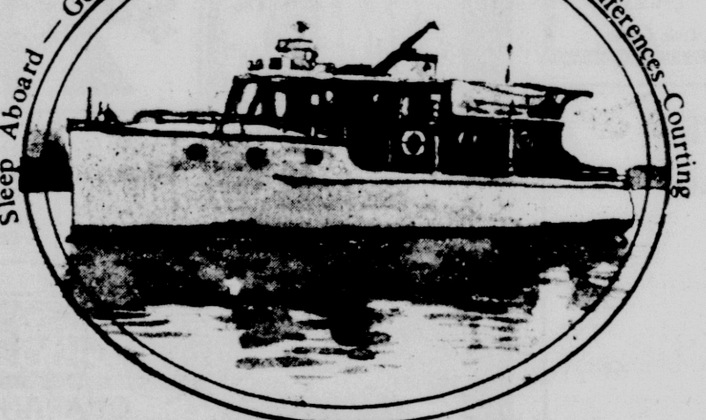

Hospital, postal, bank and other workers staged demonstrations throughout the capital yesterday to support their demands for higher wages.

Sixty ground employees of British Airways joined the strikers today, walking out for 24 hours to demand better salaries.

Union leaders said the strikes were called to force the government to modify its stringent austerity program.

The country's two major labor organizations called for a one-day general strike next Tuesday, saying the government refused to negotiate pay raises to keep up with an annual 16 per cent inflation rate.

Soviet Diplomat Panyushkin Dies

MOSCOW (UPI) — Alexander S. Panyushkin, 69, former ambassador to China, to the United States and to the Peoples Republic of China, died Tuesday after a long illness, Pravda reported today.

Born into a peasant family, Panyushkin joined the Red Army at 15 and served with the frontier troops. In 1927, he joined the Communist party and spent 35 years in diplomatic and party work, the newspaper said.

Doctors To Examine Nixon Are Selected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has ordered three court-appointed doctors to report by Nov. 29 on whether Richard M. Nixon is physically able to testify at the Watergate coverup trial.

Sirica said yesterday the doctors, whom he described as "three of the outstanding men in the country," had been ordered to conduct whatever examinations are necessary including Nixon's medical records and a physical examination of the former president himself.

The three physicians are:

Dr. Charles Anthony Hufnagle, chairman of the panel, a cardiovascular surgeon who is chief of surgery at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington.

Dr. Richard Starr Ross, a cardiologist and director of the adult cardiac clinic at Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore.

Dr. John Spittell Jr., a cardiologist and internist at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said "my colleagues and I will welcome the examination by the court appointed physicians. We know they will examine the patient and his records in an objective manner."

Sirica said the physicians would set up their own timetable for the Nixon case, but his announcement said a report — either interim or final — would be made by Nov. 29.

"What I'm going to do is leave the mechanics up to the panel," Sirica told reporters. "They know that time is of the essence. We want a report as quickly as we can get one."

DR. JOHN SPITTELL JR.
Mayo Clinic internist

The doctors were ordered to determine if Nixon is able to travel to Washington to testify and if not, when he might be.

If they decide he cannot travel from California, they have been asked to report whether he might be able to testify at a site near his home or whether he could give a sworn deposition under conditions that would "avoid serious risk of injury to his health."

Sirica empowered the panel to consult with "other competent medical personnel" if they feel it necessary. The government will pay their expenses.

PLO Guards Said On Death Squad

LONDON (UPI) — The London Evening Standard said today that three Palestine Liberation Organization guards in PLO leader Yasser Arafat's New York entourage were principally responsible for the assassination of two U.S. and a Belgian envoy in Khartoum in March, 1973.

It said confirmation of the report is causing embarrassment among United States and United Nations security officials.

It said in its "Londoner's Diary" page that the three men — Fawas Yassin Abdul Rahman, Abu Hajleh and Farouk al Husseini — were designated by Arafat to be responsible for counterterror measures during his stay in New York.

The three men traveled to New York during the weekend when they passed through London under assumed names and diplomatic status, it said.

Fawas Yassin Abdul Rahman, it said, was head of the Al Fatah office in Khartoum and was described by Sudan's President Numeiry, at the time of the murder of U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel, U.S. Embassy Charge d'Affaires George C. Moore and Belgian Charge Guy Eid as the man who planned the attack.

The other two men picked by Arafat were the men who actually took part in the killing at the Saudi Arabian Embassy.

Installment Debt At High Mark

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Ford's admonition last month to "balance your family budget," pay as much as possible in cash, and "learn how to use credit wisely" may well be heeded by the consuming public. Not out of fealty to the President, that is, but because consumers are up to their ears in debt already.

Consumers owe a record high of $154.5 billion (as of August) in installment debt — 50 per cent more than they owed four years ago. And historically consumers have slowed down their purchases when credit obligations have begun taking too large a chunk of their income.

To economic policy planners, the mountain of debt trouble for sellers of big-ticket items, on which consumers are likely to rein in their spending first. Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, commented recently that buyer resistance may be the most important factor in the sluggishness of the economy.

Several surveys of consumer sentiment show householders more worried and more cautious about spending plans than in many years. The University of Michigan Consumer Survey Center shows confidence at the lowest level in the 28 years it has been taking the public pulse, and a conference board survey depicts a sharp drop since early summer.

The effect of consumer confidence — or availability of discretionary income — has begun to show up starkly in retail sales figures. The auto industry reports that sales of new cars for the first 10 days of October was 15 per cent below the same period a year ago.

The dollar volume of retail sales fell 1.3 per cent from August to September, for the first decline since June. Sales of color TV sets, which held up

School Children Eager To Receive Safety Pennants For Their Bikes

By BETTY FROST

Eager youngsters lined up by class in the sunny school yard at the Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley one morning last week while California Highway Patrol information and education officer Myron MacNeil and traffic officer Ralph Pierotti carefully inspected their bicycles.

The third, fourth and fifth graders were anxious to prove that their bikes were in good shape and to qualify for the bright orange flags which were given to those whose two-wheelers passed 12 safety points.

"THE KIDS really care," Officer MacNeil said, indicating he would like to reward each youngster. However, despite persuasive arguments and occasional tears, they don't all pass.

Danny and Tammy received the coveted flags, but Jeff, Mark and John were told to have brakes, pedals and hand grips adjusted.

A common lapse is the absence of a chain guard, which knowledgeable children explained is dangerous because the pants leg can get caught in the chain, causing painful spills.

One child who had not brought his bike to school in the morning was so anxious to have the inspection that his mother was called and brought it over.

AWARE THAT some Marin families are headed by a single parent, Officer MacNeil has learned to say "Have your parents fix the bike," not "Ask your Dad to take care of it." Occasionally he makes a minor adjustment himself, confessing he is particularly softened by the tears of little girls who remind him of his own daughter.

Nothing punitive is intended, the officers emphasized, and once the adjustment is made and duly reported to the school principal, a new bike flag will be awarded.

TWO TESTS are being given by the CHP team in unincorporated areas in the county. Besides the physical condition of the bicycle, the skill of the rider is examined in the "Stop on a Dime" test. Officer MacNeil also explained that the department cooperates with city police who may wish to undertake similar programs.

Because the Marin Terrace children are young, and will not be doing night riding, it had not been necessary for their bikes to be equipped for night use. However, as of next January first, a new state law will require all bicycles to carry a white light in front, a red light on the rear and side reflectors to insure visibility for 500 feet regardless of rain or foggy weather.

OTHER WINTER hints are to wear light-colored clothing and to avoid graveled or greasy areas. The inspection service is available for adults as well as children. Bike clubs may contact Officer MacNeil for information.

The program is undertaken in cooperation with the school's administration and the Parent-Teacher Association. At Marin Terrace School, Principal David Martin and Jackie Kerler, P-TA Health and Safety chairman, assisted.

Eight Choirs Will Sing Yule Music

"Holiday Sounds in Song," a choral rendition of Christmas music by eight local choirs, will be presented on Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The program is a benefit for the Career Scholarship Fund for juveniles under probation who need assistance in launching a career, and is sponsored by the Marin County Juvenile Court Auxiliary, under the chairmanship of Peggy Kramer.

Gary Walker, director of music at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Greenbrae, is coordinator of the program. The participants are: St. Sebastian's Choir, Greenbrae, director, Gary Walker; First Methodist Church Choir, San Rafael, director, Sterling Rainey; First Presbyterian Westminister Choir, San Rafael, director, Byron Jones; Church of the Nativity Choir, San Rafael, director, Craig Bond; First Baptist Church Choir, San Rafael, director, John Tolar; St. Isabella's Parish Choir, Terra Linda, director, Fred Merett; Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints Choir, Greenbrae, director, Janice Gardner; Presbyterian Church of Novato Choir, director, Esther Embrey.

The organ is being donated by "Piano-Organ Warehouse" of Santa Rosa, and all participatns are volunteers. Tickets are available from auxiliary members and at the Marin Box Office at a cost of $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Russia's Leningrad was originally named St. Petersburg and then Petrograd.

ON THE AGENDA

Panel On Continuing Education For Women Scheduled Monday

"Continuing Education for Women" will be the subject of a panel discussion Monday sponsored by the Dynamic Learning Section of the Marin Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Panel members are Cal Darrow of the College of Marin, Wayne Boone of San Rafael City Schools and Carmen Welling of Dominican College. The discussion will be held at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

A bake sale to benefit the Fellowship Fund will proceed the meeting. A no-hostess luncheon will follow the program at El Greco Restaurant.

Marilyn Bolinger of San Rafael is chairman of the program and reservations can be made through Shirley Hanson. Child care will be available.

ATTY. ROGER P. Garety of San Rafael will be the guest speaker Monday at the meeting of El Marinero Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The talk will be held at the home of Marjorie Matthew of Greenbrae.

"The American Jury System" is the topic of the day. Garety is former Marin County District Attorney, past president of the Marin County Bar Association and a member of the American Board of Trial Advocates.

Hostesses for the noon luncheon are Mmes. Corinne Gregory, Sylvia Jones and Anne Smart.

MEMBERS OF Sausalito Yacht Club will get into the act when they perform in the Olio program with a French theme scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the clubhouse.

Cocktails and a crepe supper will be served beginning at 7 p.m. Lois Tonking is program chairman; Ruth Dowden, Danalee Yecki, and Jessie Hurd, reservations chairmen.

HELPFUL HINTS onknitting, crocheting and stitchery of all kinds will be given by Kermit Nickerson in a meeting tomorrow of the Home and Garden Section of the Tamalpais Centre Woman's Club, Kentfield.

Members are asked to bring sandwiches to the noon meeting, while dessert will be provided by hostess Helen Nault and her committee Florence Florke, Hilda Grandi and Aida Burgren.

San Domenico School Open House Is Sunday

An afternoon of skits, demonstrations and music will greet visitors to the San Domenico School Open House Sunday from 2:45 to 6 p.m.

From 3 to 4:30 p.m. parents will participate in a number of planned activities. These include a presentation of the one act play, "Thunder on Sycamore Street," music by the school orhestra and skits by the French class.

The math, Spanish and social studies classes will also participate in the afternoon's programs. Art students will demonstrate their skills at ceramics, painting and weaving.

Sister Karen Marie, school principal, will greet parents at 4:30 p.m. and Mass will be celebrated at 5 p.m.

Lecture Will Start At 10:30

Friday morning's lecture in the popular A.M. series, featuring a talk by author Irene Kampen, will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building in San Rafael.

An earlier story in the Independent-Journal set the time at 11:30 a.m.

Miss Kampen is the author of "Life Without George," a book on which the "Lucy" television series is based.

Tickets are obtainable at the door.

'Mama's Boy' Lets His Mother Put Their Marriage On Rocks

RAP:

Ever since Tony and I got married, his mother has insulted me. She tells him I'm no good, and interferes in our private and financial situation. You can't believe how snoopy she is, and the questions she asks.

I could stand this if Tony were man enough to put her in her place. But he "Yes Mama's" everything she says. He never makes a decision without her.

She forced him to leave me twice in a year, and now he's getting a divorce — and she has the nerve to call up and rub it in. (He's staying with her.)

Last night Tony came over and begged for a new start. Than Mama barged in and he followed meekly when she said, "Let's go home, son, I've got your dinner on."

On the way out, he whispered, "I'll be back." I'm really not anxious to see him.

What's in store for me with a Mama's boy? — OVERPOWERED

DEAR OVERPOWERED:

More and more Mama! Since I don't read much love in your letter, I think divorce is the best solution. — HELEN

O.P.:

I've a feeling the divorce won't hurt much but your pride — and that won't hurt very long when you realize how little you've lost. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

My boyfriend is still calling his ex-girl, and recently flew out to see her while she was in the hospital. When I questioned him, he said this was just a "bona fide" relationship.

In my book that means a "true" relationship. Yet he says he loves only me. What gives? — PUZZLED

PEAR PUZ:

In my dictionary, one definition of bona fide is "without deceit." Feel better? — HELEN

PUZZLED:

There's no law that says an ex-girl can't still be a friend. (Except the new girl's law.) Don't hassle it. — SUE

RAP:

The other day my dad blamed me for something and I said I didn't do it so he started yelling that I did, and I got mad and yelled back and he said I was a brat and I said I don't like to be called a liar, and the fight ended when he grounded me for a week and said if I open my mouth it would be two weeks.

Ever since then I haven't said a word to him — because he was wrong and he won't admit it. My Mom says he's lovable but stubborn, and she's right!

Shouldn't he apologize? — MAD

MAD:

Of course, your Dad should apologize — but so should you! And does it really matter who's first, so long as you start talking again?

For Pete's sake tell him you're sorry you yelled. Ten to one he'll let you know he's sorry he accused you without checking — though he may not say it outright. (Some men have a terrible time admitting they were wrong, but they make it up in actions — like doing something lovable for you.) — HELEN AND SUE

Seniors Plan Annual Sale

Mill Valley Senior Citizens will hold their annual fund raising bazaar Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Mill Valley Recreation Center, according to Jean Wood, publicity chairman.

Handcrafts, paintings, knitted and crocheted articles, rummage items, books, baked goods, Christmas ornaments and refreshments will be sold.

A preview of the bazaar will be held Saturday in the arcade next to Safeway Store in the Strawberry Town and Country Village. The seniors will show typical bazaar wares and sell tickets for a handmade quilt from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

DECORATE WITH FLOWERS AND FRUIT

The pineapple, long a symbol of hospitality, makes an attractive table setting when wreathed with flowers and other fruits and set in a pedestal vase.

KTIM Feature For Next Week Includes Prince

A prince, two editors and a former Miss Sweden will guest next week on "Jorie Talks," KTIM feature program heard at 9:30 a.m. Mondays through Thursdays.

On Monday, Beth Ashley, women's editor of the San Rafael Independent-Journal, will discuss the changeover of the women's section to a people-oriented theme.

Andrew Romanoff of Inverness, grandnephew of the last emperor of Russia, Tsar Nicholas, will be interviewed on Tuesday. Romanoff is involved in a jewelry and novelty pipe firm near Point Reyes.

On Wednesday, host Jorie Parr will talk to Stewart Brand of Sausalito about his new publication, the "Whole Earth Epilog."

Gunilla Knutson, former Miss Sweden, will be interviewed Thursday, on her new tome, "The Book of Massage."

The Great Growth Of Hobby Industry

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hobby industry has grown rapidly since the 1940s. The growth can best be told in retail sales statistics.

In 1971, for example, sales volume was estimated at $1 billion plus. By 1973, the figure went to $1.2 billion and in 1974 that record is to be exceeded. Back in 1949 sales of hobby kits and material was $100 million. By 1961 sales hit $450 million. Projected sales for the 1980s — $2 billion.

Spending Tips For Everyone In Retirement Money Guide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack Benny is credited with this definition of inflation — it means "your money won't buy as much as it would during the Depression when you didn't have any."

The currently inflated economy strikes us all and stretching the dollar becomes of paramount concern. It is of special significance to the retired, those with fixed income situations.

How to cope? A new publication gives some guidelines They were designed for the 60-plus set, but much of the advice is just as applicable to any other family.

BUDGETING is the essence of spending wisely.

"There will never be enough for everything," says the publication. "The only way out of the dilemma is to have a set of simple, workable rules for spending and conserving it.

"Armed with a financial plan, 'Can we afford it?' turns into several more manageable questions such as, 'What does it cost after everything else is accounted for?' and 'Do we want to spend that much for it instead of for something else?'"

"Remember, if you're not retired, it's not too soon to get into the budgeting habit now," it continues. "The more practice you have organizing your financial resources, the easier it will be to hold the line."

YOUR BUDGET won't be found in a rule book. Some people care very much about a fine address and very little about food. Others love steaks and are indifferent to avenues. Accordingly they need different budgets, says "Your Retirement Money Guide," publication of the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association (AARP-NRTA).

Keep budgeting simple. The guide suggested sitting down with some ruled paper and making headings for each major budget category you must cover.

THESE PROBABLY include housing, with taxes and homeowner or renter insurance added in; household maintenance including utilities and telephone; automobile payments plus gas, repairs and insurance;

Food at home and away; new clothing, dry cleaning and laundry; medical doctors, medicine and health insurance payments; recreations such as vacations and pet care;

U. S. and state (and perhaps city) income taxes, personal property tax, and life insurance premiums; personal items such as cosmetics, smoking supplies, stationery and postage.

AND YOU probably have others. But with a chart made by checking last year's cancelled checks and other financial records, you know where your money is going.

Then you can start cutting, if need be. Always budget to save some — it was Dr. Samuel Johnson, the writer and critic, who said, "Whatever you have, spend less."

The reason for saving is to be able to sail through emergencies or to accumulate the cash to buy something you want.

Savings can be made by comparison shopping, keeping up with consumer news (start a file including newspaper and magazine clippings), buying for intended use, don't overpay for convenience, time your buying to sales, and don't buy on credit if there is any other way.

(Editor's Note: A free copy of "Your Retirement Money Guide" is available by writing to AARP-NRTA, 1909 K St., N. W. Washington, D. C. 20049.)

The Culprit Behind High Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If there is a "middle man"in the system which is bringing despair to farmers and high meat prices to consumers, it probably is the system itself.

The supermarket industry and the big processors contend it's the price everyone has to pay for modern, high-volume stores and the conveniences they bring.

But some consumer groups are suspicious of that argument, believing the real answer is a more vigorous antitrust approach on the part of government.

"It's ridiculous when farmers are selling calves for $10 or $13 each when it would cost them that much to buy, feed or transport them," said one researcher at the Agriculture Accountability Project, a private consumer group. "Yet you go into a supermarket and try to buy calves or veal and it's not 10 or 15 cents a pound, which is what that price averages out to.

"The real answer is to enforce the antitrust laws of this country so that the supermarkets and the giant processors have to pay a fair price to the farmer and pass on to the consumer the cheap prices they've been paying," he added.

Both that group and the Consumer Federation of America, the nation's largest consumer group, feel President Ford's recent pledge to hold down beef imports is meaningless, since it will have little impact on meat counter prices.

There is evidence the government is devoting more and more of its resources to antitrust enforcement; but the market system is well established and the legal route is such a slow one that neither farmer nor consumer can expect to see much change very soon.

DEBT

close to last year's levels for the first six months of this year, dropped 20 per cent at an annual rate during September.

The auto industry is trying to lure customers to its new models by offering longer terms (and hence lower monthly payments). The Ford Motor Credit Co., lending arm of the auto giant, acknowledges it is making more loans this year that run longer than three years, and First National City Bank of New York is promoting four-year auto loans.

Yet with an economic slowdown and rising unemployment becoming the common expectation, consumers are almost sure to be more cautious about taking on new debt. Existing debt is already eating up a bigger share of disposable income.

Installment payments, which took up 15.5 per cent of disposable income (what's left after taxes and other deductions) four years ago, rose to 16.5 per cent in August and probably is higher now.

Moreover, necessities like food and fuel are taking a larger percentage of disposable incomes and leaving less for discretionary purchases.

Some 80 per cent of consumers use some form of credit, and two-thirds of all credit is used by the young-married in middle-income brackets. This is the same group that is hardest hit by rising costs. It includes couples purchasing and furnishing homes where the wives are least likely to be able to work profitably to supplement the family income.

Thus the pileup of consumer debt hanging over the economy is becoming a matter of increasing concern to industries that depend on credit buying.

Consumer Program Slated At Tam High

"How To Win With Retail Clerks" will be discussed by Bette Wallace, Consumer Hot Line representative, and Dave Muir, of Good Vi's Pants Store, at noon Nov. 19 at Tamalpais High School.

The discussion, sponsored by the school's Consumer Education Resource Center, will be held at the center in Wood Hall. It is open to the public at no fee.

Pills Can't Replace Good Diet

What does Senator William Proxmire have in common with actress Gloria Swanson and tennis player Bobby Riggs, besides being celebrities?

They all take vitamin pills.

While the senator does not claim that vitamin pills make him a more effective legislator, he does believe they help to stave off colds.

Nor is the 75-year-old Ms. Swanson about to agree with her admirers who insist that it's vitamins (in powdered-form) that give her the looks, drive and energy of a woman 20 years younger.

As for Riggs, who takes them to improve his tennis game, he did lose that match against Billie Jean King.

Nevertheless, there are a great many people who believe vitamins can cure an assortment of problems, ranging from facial wrinkles to sexual impotence.

How effective are vitamin pills? It depends largely on whom you ask.

While vitamin fans range from movie personalities, sports and political figures to people in every walk of life, a great many others, including numerous doctors and scientists, are much more reserved about their curative powers.

The fact is, these experts say, normal intakes of the right foods will provide the same vitamins, just as effectively — and cheaper.

Recently, after a decade of research on the subject, the Federal Food and Drug Administration said it had determined that certain vitamins when taken in large, unnecessary quantities can prove toxic. In some cases, they felt, side effects, or a drug dependency could result. A great many doctors also believe that large doses of some vitamins can harm people suffering with diabetes, as well as those with certain types of kidney problems.

As a result, the government agency issued directives governing the labeling and selling of vitamins. One order states that when vitamin potency exceeds certain levels, they may be sold only on prescription. A Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) instituted by the agency designates those vitamin amounts which uphold proper nutrition standards. The agency said that pills and capsules containing more than 150 per cent of the established RDA should be labeled and sold as drugs, rather than as dietary supplements.

Vitamin-pill adherents who question the agency's regulations point out that restricting people's rights to take vitamins as they wish will make the pills more expensive and harder to obtain.

Whatever the vitamin users' claims, much scientific opinion holds that a balanced diet is still the best and cheapest source of vitamins.

State Hearing Requested In Firing Appeal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Sonoma County probation officer, appealing his firing for allegedly allowing teen-ager runaways to use drugs and have sex in his home, said yesterday through his attorney that he wants the appeal heard by a state hearing officer rather than the county civil service commission.

Louis Hensley Jr., 49, of Santa Rosa, appeared before the commission with attorney Mike H. Welty to begin the appeal procedure.

Welty told the commission that Hensley also prefers that all hearings on his case be public. The commissioners agreed.

Commissioner Dorothy A. Pingree of Sonoma said she supported the request for a state officer because as an outsider, he would not be prejudiced by a Santa Rosa newspaper's accounts of Hensley's firing on Oct. 22.

The commission agreed to ask county supervisors to approve Hensley's request. Commissioners again will discuss the matter at 2 p.m. Nov. 27; they expect to have an answer from supervisors by that time.

Hensley, who joined the county probation department in January of 1970, was fired by chief probation officer William Mulligan after Santa Rosa police arrested him on suspicion of marijuana possession. Mulligan said the evidence of juvenile activity at Hensley's home came from an investigation conducted by the county sheriff's office.

Hensley is scheduled to be arraigned on the marijuana charge at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Santa Rosa Municipal Court.

FIXED — Though most of the broken windows in the East Block remain open to the elements, a few, like this one, have been repaired temporarily with cardboard. Prison officials say the inmates themselves are responsible for the breakage. The East Block faces San Francisco Bay and bears the full brunt of the cold winter winds, inmates say.

Winds Damaging Antique Ships

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gusty winds from San Francisco Bay are causing extensive damage to the antique ships on display at Hyde Pier.

Harry Drigg, area manager of the San Francisco Maritime State Historic Park suggested the five sailing vessels be moved to Oakland for protection.

He told a city planning and urban renewal association meeting that high winds and surges that blow in from the Golden Gate have caused significant damage to at least two ships, the Dolphin and the Lapalma. Repairs costing $65,000 have already been completed on the Dolphin, Drigg said.

Holiday Classes Due Saturdays

The Corte Madera Recreation Department will present a series of "Holiday Special" instructional classes on Saturdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. at the youth center.

The schedule calls for card making Nov. 30, ornament making Dec. 7, gift wrapping Dec. 14 and "party know-how" Dec. 21.

Fee is $5 per person or $8 per family. Registration is now being taken at town hall.

John Duncan Heads Bolinas Beach Club

John Duncan, a retired accountant for Standard Oil of California, is the new president of the Bolinas Beach Improvement Club. He replaces James Alfsen.

Duncan, 59, has been a summer and weekend resident of Bolinas for 20 years and moved to the community from Albany this summer. He has been a member of the improvement club six years.

While in Albany, he was on the city's traffic and safety commission and was a member of the Alameda County Republican Central Committee. He is a new member of the Briones chapter (Bolinas-Stinson Beach) of the Lion's Club.

Duncan is a native of Oakland and a Navy veteran of World War II. He and his wife, Margaret, live at 303 Cherry Road.

SAN QUENTIN COMPLAINT

A Cold Inmate Sues For Comfort

By GEORGE NEVIN

The cold winter wind that rolls off San Francisco Bay and delivers a frigid broadside to San Quentin's East Block has prompted a lawsuit in Marin Superior Court.

Inmate Gordon L. Dollar claims so many windows facing the bay are broken that he and other prisoners have to bundle up in pea jackets to keep warm.

Further, says his writ of habeas corpus, the heating system in the 44-year-old cellblock is so inadequate that some cells, including his own on the second tier, get no heat at all.

An inspection of the East Block yesterday by an Independent-Journal reporter and photographer confirmed that numerous windows in the five-tier block indeed are broken.

Shattered panes with jagged edges abound both on the bay side and on the side facing the prison's main exercise yard. But many of the massive windows are intact, and cardboard strips cover holes in others.

Dollar, who is known at the prison and the Marin Hall of Justice as a prolific writ-writer, wants Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court to order the prison to repair the windows and the steam heat.

The entire East Block is too hot in the summer and too cold in the winter, he said. To keep warm, Dollar said he must sleep under two blankets, one doubled over, and wear all his clothes to bed.

Dollar also claimed many of his cellblock mates cover the doors of their cells with blankets and clothing to retain the heat, but those that do are subject to disciplinary action by prison officials.

Yesterday's inspection confirmed part of his claim. Of 114 cells on the second tier of the cellblock, 79 had been sealed off with cardboard, newspaper, plastic, wood, clothing or blankets. Many of the remaining cells were unoccupied.

Associate Warden William D. Nyberg, who led the cellblock tour, said he could not permit reporters to talk to Dollar or other inmates about the asserted lack of heat because the matter is before the courts.

The East Block houses inmates in categories 1 and 2—those prisoners considered least likely to commit violent acts, said Nyberg.

If the prison won't repair the windows and heating system, Dollar asked the court to order the block closed as unfit for human habitation.

Nyberg said many of the windows are broken by the inmates themselves when they throw objects through the bars of their cells.

Dollar also said his cellbrock is locked down longer than others at the prison and receives fewer supplies — linen, clean clothing, soap, paper and writing supplies.

Judge Menary yesterday asked the state attorney general to file an informal response to Dollar's charges, after which he will decide if a formal reply to the inmate's writ is warranted.

Most such writs are denied immediately, Menary said, but once in a while one has sufficient merit to call for a response. Fewer still are given a formal hearing, and very few are granted.

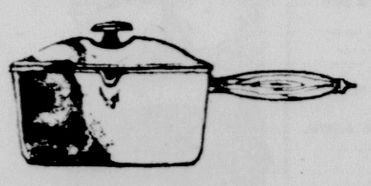

BAFFLED — With the ingenuity that seems to accompany being a prisoner, many of the East Blockers have sealed off portions of their cell fronts to conserve heat. Besides newspaper, they use plastic panels, clothing, blankets, cardboard and wood.

SAN RAFAEL DRAMA SLATED

Cyndie Sinclair gasps in horror, as Scott Taylor tries to restrain knife-wielding Leslie Hendrix in a dramatic scene from San Rafael High School's fall play, "Twelve Angry People." The play — recounting the tale of twelve jurors trying to decide the fate of a man accused of killing his father — will be presented today, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. FAMILY

"Vanishing Wilderness" — A refreshing tour of North American wilderness including the Rocky Mountains, Alaska and the Florida Everglades. Superbly photographd with entertaining narrative.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bank Shot" — George Scott in a comedy-crime film. A crew of thieves take a bank and blow it up in an attempt to open the safe. Some parents may object to the treatment of the police but there is no crude language, sex or violence.

"Class of '44" — Sequel to "Summer of '42" sees teenagers off to college. Sex, cursing, violence. (Over 16).

"Cold Sweat" — Charles Bronson, Liv Ulman and James Mason star in this action film that includes the usual chase along a mountain road, plenty of violence and double crossing. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Harry and Tonto" — Art Carney in a warm and witty performance as a 72-year-old Harry who travels across the country with his cat, Tonto. Entertaining and emotionally comforting to view contemporary life through Harry's wise old eyes. Very coarse language. (Mature youth).

"Odessa File" — A journalist uncovers an organization protecting wartime members of the dreaded branch of the Wehrmacht. (Box-Office Magazine).

"Save the Tiger" — A manufacturer desperate for money, is sickened by the degeneration of today's society, but does not relate it to his own illegal activities or the great luxury he enjoys. Film exposes the rottenness at the core of our society. Cursing, some nudity. (For youths over 15).

"Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams" — An honest, searching film about a middle-aged woman and her relationships with those closest to her. Sensitive script, direction and astute performances. (Over 14).

"The Taking of Pelham 1,2,3" — Four cold-blooded criminals hi-jack a subway train in mid-Manhattan in broad daylight and demand a million dollar ransom from the mayor. Implausable, but well done. Much cursing and violence. (Over 16).

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Longest Yard" — Overly-long film details a football game between convicts and a semi-pro group of prison guards. The two sides try to slaughter one another "legally". Strictly for Burt Reynolds and devoted gridiron fans.

"Paralax View" — Nine witnesses to an assassination die. The remaining witness reopens the case and uncovers an insidious conspiracy. Profanity and bloody violence but extremely suspenseful. (Over 16).

"Summer of '42" — Three 15-year-old boys on a summer island resort, obsssed with sex and trying to learn all they can about it. Low-keyed drama, well performed, good photography. Vulgar language. (Mature teens over 16).

ADULTS ONLY

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"The Gambler" — A stinging tension-filled film that leaves the viewer with an unsettling bad taste in the mouth. Not for the weak-hearted or the young. Raw language and hard to bear violence. (Film Information).

"Last Detail" — Salty, hard-hitting, raucous tale of two sailors escorting a young boot to a naval prison. Excellent acting, but much bawdiness, non-stop obscenity, nudity. (Over 17).

"Law and Disorder" — A good cast, with Carroll O'Connor and Ernest Borgnine in another vigilante-type film. Extensive use of vulgar language and sudden violence that is improperly motivated.

Navajo Leader Is Reelected

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (UPI) — Navajo Tribal Chairman Peter MacDonald has won election to a second term, defeating the same man he ousted four years ago.

With one precinct still uncounted yesterday, unofficial tallies showed MacDonald and his running mate, Wilson Skeet, with 22,408 votes to 17,397 for Raymond Nakai and Charley Toledo.

50,000 Japanese Tourists Expected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — At least 50,000 Japanese tourists are expected to visit San Francisco this year, 10,000 more than the year before, an airline spokesman says.

David Grieve, speaking yesterday for Japan Air Lines, pointed out that despite inflation, this country's prices are still less than those in Japan.

Shakespeare Comedy Planned By College

The College of Marin Department of Theater Arts will give 15 performances of Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor," beginning tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Theater III on the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San Anselmo.

The play, a comedy about manners and morality of the merchant class in Elizabethan England, is directed by H. J. Susser. Dakin Matthews of Oakland plays Sir John Falstaff, Carol Kravetz of San Anselmo plays Mistress Page and Barbara Jeppesen of San Anselmo plays Mistress Ford.

"Merry Wives" will be offered in repertory with Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" during the holiday season. James C. Dunn directs "Much Ado," and moved its setting from Elizabethan England to the Edwardian period early in the 20th century.

The same 32-member cast performs in both plays. In "Much Ado," Daniel Caldwell of San Anselmo plays Benedick, Betty Hager of San Rafael plays Beatrice.

One set, designed by Ronald Krempetz, will be used for both plays.

Tickets cost $3 (general admission) and $2 (students). Season tickets cost $12.

"Merry Wives" performances are Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Nov. 21, 22, 23, 24, 27, 29, 30 and Dec. 18, 20 and 21, all at 8 p.m. and Dec. 21 and 22 at 2 p.m.

"Much Ado" will be performed Dec. 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 22, 26, 27 and 28, all at 8 p.m.; and Dec. 7 and 14 at 2 p.m.

Alan Barnes, Frank Czuchman, Robert Gustavino, Barbara Jeppesen, Carol Kravetz, Greg Olsson, Jim Owen, Dan Caldwell, all of San Anselmo; Lance Brady, Betty Hager, Kendell Jackson, Jeff Josephson, Steve Whiteman, Joyce Kinsella, David Silverman, all of San Rafael.

Also Cathy Cahn and Kelvin Keraga of Novato; Cathy Carter and Sally McElroy of Greenbrae; Barbara Fanning and Candy Hollis of Tiburon; Lynn Gutstadt of Ross.

Primavera Trio Plans A Concert

The Dominican College Music Associates will present a concert by the Primavera Trio at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 1 at Angelico Hall on the Dominican campus in San Rafael.

The trio consists of Edna Comerchero, flutist, a graduate of the New England Conservatory; Janice Eastman, pianist and harpsichordist, a gradute of Julliard School of Music, and Jane Rabin, who has been principal cellist of the Sacramento Symphony.

The program will include Trio Sonata in D Major, Opus 2 by Leclair, Passepied No. 2 by Lacome, Trio in F Major by Telemann and "Five Impressions of a Holiday," Opus 7, No. 1 by Goosens.

The concert is part of the Music Associates Chamber Music Series. Series membership of $12 which admits two persons to each of four concerts. General admission of $2.50 for adults and 75 cents for students for each concert.

Eggs Flipped At The Queen

HALIFAX, England (UPI) — A woman threw three eggs at Queen Elizabeth II yesterday. All missed.

The queen was leaving a new office building she had inspected and was getting inside her Rolls-Royce to drive away.

The first egg hit the arm of a bodyguard as he shielded the queen. The second bounced odf the automobile and landed in the street. The third went wild.

Police arrested the woman and said she was charged with conduct likely to cause a breach of the peace.

State Gets More Unclaimed Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Controller Houston I. Flourney yesterday reported that slightly more than $1 million in unclaimed funds and abandoned property was turned over to the state for safe keeping between July and September.

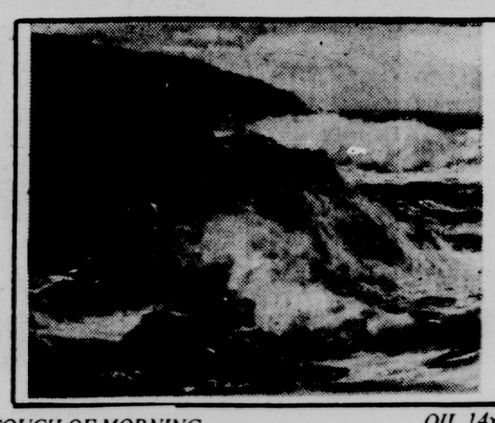

The state received $833,723 in unclaimed funds from 450 estates around California, which will revert to the state if left unclaimed for five years, Flournoy said.

The controller said 1,500 pieces of abandoned property valued at $209,437 will be subject to claim indefinitely.

At the end of September, the controller's office was custodian for $8.7 million in unclaimed funds and $26.2 million in abandoned property.

It was estimated that 1,030 persons died when the excursion steamer General Slocum burned in New York's East River, June 15, 1904.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Monti of 216 Belle Avenue, San Rafael were having a quiet lunch yesterday when their house shook and a terrific bang reverberated through it. This Volkswagon van belonging to Sonny Edwards of 212 Belle Avenue had rolled down from a nearby apartment parking lot, down a steep embankment into the house, shaking mortar loose from the fireplace and ruining a poinsettia bed. "This is the fourth time in recent months that cars have rolled into our yard, but the first time that one has hit the house," said Mrs. Monti.

ONE NIGHT IN THE TANK

An Inside Look At The Drunks

WAITING — There isn't much to do inside Marin's drunk tank, so most of its "customers" just fall asleep. Reporter George Nevin spent six hours inside the padded cell on a recent weekend night; more than 3,000 others have been placed in the cell to sober up in the past 12 months.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: "The rubber room," deputies at the Marin County Jail call it. But it's best known as the drunk tank, and on the typical weekend night it's home for six or eight persons who are adjudged too intoxicated to care for themselves. Most are Marin residents, most are men and most were out driving the streets and highways when they were stopped, arrested, handcuffed and brought to jail. Independent-Journal reporter George Nevin spent a recent weekend night there. Here is his report.)

By GEORGE NEVIN

There isn't a whole lot to do inside the drunk tank if you're not drunk.

You can listen to the television set blaring in the mess hall next door, but that gets boring.

You can explore the padded cell, but there isn't much to see: One glass wall and a steel enclosed glass door, and three other walls of soft rubber that give when you press them, a resilient floor that slopes down to a stainless steel hole near the back and two merciless fluorescent lamps.

You can mull over the words of the jailer as he escorted you through a massive steel door to the tank: "This will be your home for about four hours."

And you can wonder why on earth you wanted to spend the night in the drunk tank at all.

Marin police agencies arrested 3,614 persons on assorted alcohol-related offenses in the past 12 months, and just about all of them spent several hours sobering up in the tank.

Most were brought in for drunken driving, easily the most common crime in Marin County.

After four hours, most were released on OR — Their own recognizance — following an interview with a probation officer, and the rest posted the $375 bail. A few stayed in the jail, though not in the tank, until the next court day.

The night I was there, I had six cellmates. They came trickling in by ones and twos from about 1 a.m. to 5 a.m.

Each had a story to tell, either in words or actions.

Nobody got sick or belligerent. Nobody challenged anybody to fight, or spent hours pounding on the door and cursing at the deputies and the world, though these things have happened before.

What most of them did was what everybody in the sheriff's department told me they would — went to sleep on the padded floor.

It's easy to experience the drunk tank first-hand. A few drinks, followed too closely by a spin down Highway 101, is an excellent way.

But if you aren't drunk, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos likes the security of a court order before he'll let you inside.

So, armed with such an order, signed by a superior court judge, I arrived at the jail at 11 p.m. on a weekend night.

Minutes later, relieved of wallet, keys, belt, shoes and everything in my pockets, I was stretched out on the floor of the 9-by-16-foot cell.

After two hours of listening to a late-night rock concert from the jail trusties' television set on the other side of a thick wall, I got my first company.

He was young, dungareed and Chicano — that much I could see, but no more, because my glasses were taken away from me.

"Do you speak Spanish?" he asked. He sounded relaxed, not too unhappy but not really drunk.

Without waiting for an answer, he flopped down on the floor, spat into the hole and swore at the police who had arrested him. But he didn't sound as though his heart was in his curses.

"I had $95 when I started drinking. When they took everything from my pockets out there (the booking desk) I thought I had $50 left. But they showed me I didn't have any of it.

"How am I going to explain to my wife?

"I was weaving along the freeway. I have a big car, a 1963 Oldsmobile. My cousin was in the car, too. He drove it off; I don't know where he is.

"I can't wait to get to my case, my wife. This is the first time I've been in this jail. I was in the Tijuana jail once. Have you ever been there?

"There were 35 guys in a space this big (indicating the drunk tank). Just curled up. All of them for being drunk. If they couldn't pay the $12, they got 15 days. If they were good, eight days. If they were bad, 30 days."

The young man grew tired of talking, and stretched out for a nap. The floor smelt of lemon-scented disinfectant.

Soon, we were joined by two more men. They were chuckling and trading jibes with each other and the jailer.

One of them, a casually dressed man in his mid-30s, was given to alcoholic giggles. I labeled him the joker.

"I've lived in Sausalito for 13 years and I've always wondered when I'd get brought in on a 502. (Drunken driving once was covered by section 502 of the state vehicle code. Now, it's section 23102, but oldtimers still call it a 502 or, more often, a deuce.)

"I'm not a drunk," he said, snickering, "I'm a goddam murderer. I took out 20 feet of government shrubs."

It seemed the joker had missed a turn on the freeway and plowed through some bushes, almost rolling his Volkswagen.

"Those cops, they can't take a job," he said to nobody in particular. "They don't have any sense of humor. I offered to buy them a drink but they didn't think it was funny."

The other man told his story too — quite a different story than was related the next day in the Independent-Journal.

Since he faces felony charges quite apart from his drunkenness, his comments cannot be repeated. But the way he told it, he was having a few quiet beers at home when the police Maced him and dragged him off to jail.

He good-naturedly bet the joker he had the louder snore, and soon both were trying to prove their superiority.

By now, all three of my cellmates were asleep. The joker and the other man filled the cell with the most ear-splitting snores. The young Chicano man sprawled on the floor, one leg trailing into the stainless-steel-lined hole.

It was an hour before the next customers arrived — a young, denim-clad man and a white-haired gentleman.

Both took one look at what appeared to be four derelicts passed out on the floor, and the same look spread across both faces: I'm not getting down on the floor with those drunks.

So both stood, the young man in one front corner against the glass, the older man in the other corner.

After a few muttered comments about what "those mother------- cops" had done to him, the young man was quiet.

But the older man kept shaking his head incredulously though it was impossible to understand what he was saying. Finally, he gathered his breath and his wits and plaintively said, "They took my car."

As he swayed, sobbing, the young man took him by his arm and asked, "Are you OK? Do you need a doctor?"

The older man made an unintelligible answer, but eventually, from the rhythm of his speech and his tone of voice, we were able to understand that he was all right.

I had had enough. It was almost 5 a.m., and I wanted out.

When the next man was brought to the cell, I stepped forward — swaying unsteadily in hopes of appearing intoxicated, though nobody seemed to notice — and asked the jailer if I could make my telephone call.

It was a prearranged signal that I wanted to cut short my incarceration, but for five full heartbeats the jailer said nothing.

Just as I was resigning myself to the fact that this deputy didn't know who I was and I would have to stay, he nodded and said, "All right, come on."

The booking desk looked like an old friend and I started to relax. But the jailers wanted to have a little fun with me.

"The bail's $375. Can you raise it?" they asked.

"No way," I said, sure they were joking. Or were they?

"Then it's back in the tank for you," one said.

But when no one moved to enforce the order, I realized I wouldn't have to go back into the rubber room.

I was free.

Last-Minute Shopper Wins In Lottery

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Mrs. Anneita C. Hughes beat the inflation spiral yesterday when she went to the grocery store to buy a chicken —and went home $50,000 richer.

The 55-year-old widow decided to take a chance when she came out of the food store and saw people waiting in line at the Maryland lottery's "drawingmobile" for last-minute tickets for the noon drawing.

Mrs. Hughes bought one of the only three tickets left when she got to the head of the line.

Five minutes later, after the wheel had spun out five of the six digits on Mrs. Hughes' ticket, she turned to a lottery official and said quietly, "Here, hold my shopping bag. It's got my chicken in it."

One more spin, and a very excited Mrs. Hughes was the lottery's weekly winner.

Lottery officials said it was the first time in the lottery's 18-month existence that the winner had purchased a 50-cent ticket at the drawing site.

College Reps Due At Marin

Representatives of 13 four-year colleges in the Pacific Northwest will visit College of Marin next Wednesday to give information to students who are planning to continue their schooling.

Representatives will be in the student center from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Schools are:

Oregon — George Fox College, Newberg; Lewis and Clark College, Portland; Pacific University, Forest Grove; Reed College, Portland; Warner Pacific College, Portland; Linfield College, McMinnville; Willamette University, Salem.

Idaho — College of Idaho, Caldwell.

Actor Pleads No Contest In Break-In

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David Carradine, star of the television series "Kung Fu," pleaded no contest yesterday to charges of malicious mischief and trespass in a bizarre incident in which he smashed his way into a neighbor's home.

Carradine, 37, was fined $250 and placed on a year's probation for breaking into the home of Michael Lobner, who lives about a mile from Carradine in Laurel Canyon. Lobner said he returned to his home Sept. 15 to find a window broken, furniture smashed, a medicine cabinet rifled and smears of blood on the keys of his piano. He followed a trail of blood to the home of Carradine, who apparently slashed his arm in punching through the window.

Carradine also faces a $1.1 million civil suit filed by Anrick Marie Kilty, who maintained that the same day as the incident at Lobner's home, a nude, bleeding Carradine leaped from his car and tried to rip her clothes off, screaming that she was a witch. Carradine has denied the accusation.

Smog Officials Again Delay A Tough New Permit Plan

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials yesterday again postponed action on a tough new permit system they have been studying since last December.

The issue was postponed for more discussion to a special meeting at 10 a.m. Dec. 11 in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The special session comes only 21 days before the deadline set by the federal government for the board to adopt the system. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has warned that it will enforce the system itself if the Bay Area district fails to act by the deadline at the end of the year.

The system will require both construction and operating permits for all large projects in the nine-county region. It is aimed at any "indirect source" which increases use of automobiles enough to interfere with limits on air pollution.

It will apply to roads, shopping centers, redevelopment and urban renewal projects (such as planned in San Rafael), large parking facilities, and large commercial, industrial and residential developments.

The board also postponed for another year enforcement of its regulation requiring gasoline stations to have new nozzles to recover 90 per cent of the vapors from fueling vehicles. The regulation was adopted in January, 1973, and originally set a deadline of last Jan. 1. The deadline was postponed to this coming January, and yesterday's action put it off again to Jan. 1, 1976.

The district's staff recommended the new delay, agreeing with protests from oil companies that the new nozzles still were being developed and will not be available by January. The staff estimated their cost at $100 apiece for some 20,000 nozzles, for a total of $2 million in the Bay Area.

The spur development of the nozzle, however, the board adopted a staff recommendation that service stations install by next July 1 all piping necessary to return vapors to underground tanks. The pipes thus would be in place and ready for use as soon as the new nozzle is ready.

The piping will cost $2,000 to $6,000 for each station, the staff estimated. About half of the major stations have installed the piping as part of their systems to recover vapors from the filling of their underground tanks.

Air Pollution Control Directors Also:

POLLUTION — Received staff report that the limit for oxidant was exceeded on 28 of the 32 days ending Oct. 22.

STANDARDS — Postponed to Dec. 19 action on new regulations to limit emissions of asbestos, beryllium and mercury. The district now has no limits on these contaminants, but has been ordered by the federal government to control them.

VIOLATIONS — Received staff report that notices for violating district regulations have been issued in Marin against Freeman and Sondgroth at the Silveira pit north of Novato, the Tobin Satori Ranch at Black Point, J. Westcott at 1682 Novato Boulevard, and the Texaco gasoline station at 143 Third Street, San Rafael. In Petaluma, a violation notice was issued against the Bodega Avenue Texaco station.

LEGISLATURE — Heard without comment a suggestion by chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., a Marin County supervisor, that the Legislature give Bay Area officials another year to consolidate regional agencies on their own without pressure of more bills to force such consolidation.

Petaluman Says House Burglarized

A Petaluma homeowner yesterday told police his home was burglarized, ransacked and apparently lived in while he and his wife vacationed.

Ralph Pricolo of 1720 Kearney Street said someone entered his home during the last two weeks of October and stole about $1,000 worth of jewelry.

The burglars also smashed a television set and several pieces of furniture, broke at least eight windows and smashed holes in walls.

Pricolo, who said he delayed reporting the break-in because he works late hours, said it appeared the burglars spent at least several days in the house before moving on. The damage and lost jewelry was not covered by insurance, he told police.

'Trance Dance' Workshop Set

A workshop will be presented by dancer Ann Halprin tomorrow from 8 to 10 p.m. at the College of Marin gymnasium, sponsored by the Associated Students.

Entitled "Trance Dance," it combines African and Native American traditional forms. Also performing are Xavier Nash and drummer Benito Santiago.

Burke Admits One GeoTek Case Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Oil promoter John P. (Jack) Burke, on trial charged with fraud, pleaded guilty yesterday to one count of making a false statement.

It was a negotiated plea in which the government asked that all 15 remaining counts against him be dropped.

The end to the criminal trial of the 48-year-old San Francisco entrepreneur and former Marin resident came just before the government ended its case against Burke in connection with the GeoTek Corp., and its oil and gas exploration programs.

Burke pleaded guilty to count 17, which charged him with making false statements in an affidavit given to the Securities and Exchange Commission Jan. 28, 1972.

Count 16, which charged conspiracy, was dropped last week when a directed verdict of acquittal was ordered for his two co-defendants, Arthur J. Lempert, 42, San Mateo, and Robert S. Rose, 44, San Rafael, both attorneys.

The other 15 counts, for which the government asked dismissal, involved oher false statements and mail fraud.

The sudden end to the criminal trial, which began Oct. 22, came after a morning-long discussion in chambers among the attorneys and U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert.

The judge reconvened court out o the presence of the jury and accept Burke's builty plea.

Burke faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both. He will be sentenced Jan. 20.

Exhaust Repair Code To Be Eased

Owners of vehicles that flunk California Highway Patrol exhaust tests may try to adjust their engines themselves beginning Jan. 1.

Highway Patrol Commissioner Daniel Lanza explained that a change in the state Vehicle Code relaxes the requirement that work to correct exhaust emission violations be done only at an official smog control station.

After Jan. 1, the owner may make his own engine adjustments, then take the vehicle to a CHP inspection lane for a recheck. If the vehicle fails the second test, however, it must go to an official smog control station for adjustment and certification.

Lanza said owners may "do it yourself" only on exhaust violations; all other smog device violations still must be clared through official licensed stations.

Today is Thursday, Nov. 14, the 318th day of 1974 with 47 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Robert Fulton, American inventor of the steamboat, was born Nov. 14, 1765.

On this day in history:

In 1832, the first horse-drawn street car made its appearance in New York City. It carried 30 passengers.

In 1940, German planes bombed Coventry, in southern England, destroying or damaging 69,000 of the 75,000 buildings in the city.

In 1973, Britain's Princess Anne married commoner Captain Mark Phillips.

A thought for the day: Swedish inventor Charles Francis Kettering said, "A man must have a certain amount of intelligent ignorance to get anywhere."

TEN OF HEARTS

West opens the ten of hearts against three no-trump, and South wins with the ace. This play should deceive nobody, however, since East's play of the four of hearts should not set West to cheering wildly.

South next leads the eight of diamonds, and West wins with the king. East plays the deuce, signaling an odd number of cards in the suit. (With two diamonds East would begin a high-low signal.)

ATTACK SPADES

The North hand looks as solid as a bank, and the only way to defeat the contract is to break the bank. West must attack spades to drive out dummy's entry before the diamonds are established.

If West leads a low spade dummy will play low and East will win with the queen of spades. This will leave dummy with the ace-jack of spades, safe against any further attack by East.

West can break the bank only by leading the king of spades. If dummy takes the ace of spades at once, there is no further entry to the diamonds. If dummy plays low, West continues with another spade. One way or another, dummy's entry is knocked out.

New Poison Out For 'Super Rats'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rats that have developed an immunity to common poison have infested parts of New York, and the city Health Department launched an intensive two-day attack against the "super rats" with a new kind of poison.

Instead of Warfarin, the old rat poison which attacks rats' blood, exterminators began spreading food laced with the new poison, zinc phosphide, which is supposed to cause rats to choke to death.

The poison causes rats to regurgitate, but because rats are physically unable to vomit, they choke on the bait and die of strangulation. Zinc phosphide acts within 25 minutes after it is eaten.

It's Best To Wait On Phone Warrants

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. American Telephone & Telegraph warrants (NYSE) were highly recommended to me at the time I bought them. What do you think of them? I hold 1,000 at close to $12,000. — H.P.

A. Although AT&T Chairman deButts indicted early last month that the company has no plans to either extend or request common shareholder approval of any change in the warrants' terms, he did not slam the door completely. Because he qualified his statement with the words "as of the moment," warrant holders may still have "a toe in the door" should the share price remain depressed over the six months to expiration, thereby making the warrants valueless.

Telephone shareholders have proved, over the years, to be a continuing source of new capital. And, while deButts noted that over half of the warrants were held by speculators, certainly a significant number are held by loyal shareholders. In fact, to date, exercise of warrants has added about $3.5 million to Ma Bell's coffers. Exercise of all the outstanding warrants represents a potential $1.6 billion in new equity capital, no mean amount for a company which is struggling to reduce its debt/equity ratio. Your best course is to wait it out, in hopes of either a recovery in share price or some modification in the terms of the warrants, which should be reflectd in their price.

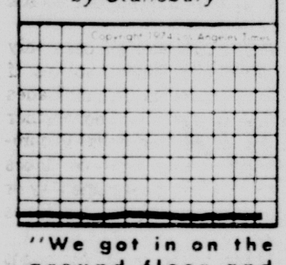

Q. We are in our 70s and hold $3,000 to $5,000 of the following bonds: Consolidated Edison 2003, Pacific Gas & Electric 2001, Panhandle Eastern Pipeline 1989, Public Service Electric & Gas 1996 and Washington Gas Light 1994. We understand Con. Edison took a big drop. How are these bonds rated and are they safe? — W.J.

A. The Con. Edison 8.4 per cent bond, which is rated BB, traded recently at $610, up from a low of $510. Because of the uncertainties surrounding this utility, I would sell this bond and reinvest the proceeds in Ohio Power's new A-rated short-term issue, the 12⅛s of 1981. The switch would mean a loss of under $60 in interest income annually. The other four issues carry A or AA ratings and should be held.

Sting Of Inflation Takes Away Market's Joy Over Coal Pact

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sting of inflation took much of the joy out of a tentative coal industry agreement as prices moved slightly higher today in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Just as the market opened, the Labor Department reported the October wholesale price index soared 2.3 per cent, more than double September's figure. It showed inflation remains a major problem.

That news eroded the cautious encouragement investors found in the tentative agreement feached yesterday by the United Mine Workers Union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Steels, directly affected by the nationwide coal strike, rose fractionally, led by Armco and Bethlehem, up ⅞s apiece.

Population Of Marin Declining

Northern California's population growth is slowing down, as in the rest of the state, with both Marin and San Francisco showing a drop in population this year, compared with last year.

That is the report from Joseph Wahed of Mill Valley, vice president, economics department, at Wells Fargo Bank. Wahed's report, based on information from the U.S. Department of Commerce and the California Department of Finance, shows Marin's population dropped by 0.5 per cent and San Francisco's by 1.3 per cent. Marin's population dropped from 215,700 on July 1 last year to 214,700 on July 1 this year, while San Francisco's dropped from 687,900 last year to 679,200 this year.

The other seven counties in the Bay Area showed slight increases in population, but at a slower rate than in past years. Of Bay Area counties, Sonoma had the highest growth rate with 2.7 per cent over last year, followed by Napa with 2 per cent over last year.

California's population growth has been slowing since the early 1960's, but in recent years there has been a dramatic drop in the birth rate both here and across the nation, said Wahed. "The declining rate stems from many factors. Key among these are socio-economic forces — higher levels of education and income, more women in the labor force, concern about overpopulation, wider acceptance of birth control methods and liberalized abortion laws. Adding to these elements are uncertain business conditions and high inflation rates, which also lead to lower birth rates."

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

How To Implement County Plan? Don't!

The Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday is scheduled to discuss implementing the adopted county general plan.

The advice it will get from at least two citizen groups is: Don't!

In a report to be presented to the supervisors, the City-County Planning Council says: "Actions which restrict housing . . . will disrupt the socio-economic makeup of the population, favoring those with higher incomes and causing a shift toward an older and wealthier population . . .

"The committee feels that Marin County should set its mind to the protection of the environment by means other than those which will make the environment available only to those with increasingly high incomes."

THE MARIN COALITION will be on hand with its own analysis of the general plan, and with a stronger objection than that voiced by the City-County Planning Council.

The Marin Coalition was formed to bring to bear on public issues more widely representative views than are heard from the influential but highly specialized public interest groups active in Marin. Its attack on the general plan will be its first major foray.

In a letter by Donald Beacock, vice chairman, accompanying its analysis, Marin Coalition declares that "the implementation of this plan as presently written will have serious negative social and economic consequences."

It goes on that "in order for a plan to be workable and meet with any measures of success, it should remain within the social desires and financial ability of the average resident." It quotes from the financial impact study by consultants Baxter, McDonald and Smart that the Marin County plan instead contains "a shopping list of ethereal goals which are impractical and impossible to achieve in the real world of Marin County economics and national inflation."

Both the Marin Coalition and the City-County Planning Council draw on the consultants' report for much of their criticism of the plan.

UP IN COTATI last week, a left-wing city councilman hit squarely the falsity of growth control goals such as Marin's county government (and, to an extent, its city governments) have kidded themselves into adopting.

William Payne, a newly appointed Cotati City Council member, said rising rents were forcing Cotati residents to give up their homes. And he blamed the rent increases on that city's policy of growth control.

Payne's "solution" was to impose rent controls. History has proved, however, that such a solution works only temporarily. To bring rents down permanently, there must be more housing. Supply much catch up with demand.

That little truism was overlooked by Marin's officialdom in adopting the so-called countywide plan — which the supervisors did without waiting for the economic impact report. The consultants spotted the flaw.

Kicks From Hoe And Rake

We have friends who are really high on gardening. Some Marinites would rather garden than eat. To them, a day without some garden work is a day wasted. They are the most in tune with nature and contented folks we know. They get their kicks from the compost pile and green growing things which they treat like treasured friends. But step on their marigolds and they'll kill you with a look.

Lobbyists Voice Disgust Over Two-Year Session

By EARL G. WATERS

As the new legislature prepares to commence the second try at a two-year session, it is appropriate to take stock of its operation.

The '73-'74 session, the first in the two-year session experiment, has, excepting for those who engineered the scheme, been declared a flop and a failure.

To get a better insight on how it has worked, a survey of lobbyists was undertaken. These are the people who work full-time watchdogging legislative proposals. And, while they are often denounced as "special interests," the fact is that, combined as a group, they represent and protect almost every interest in the state. The result is that they are not only scrutinizing the measures but each other. Under such circumstances, the public is better protected than if there were no lobbyists at all.

In attempting to get their views, it was recognized that lobbyists do not like to be quoted. Their roles are such that they shun publicity. For that reason the comments are presented without identifying the individuals.

THE OVERALL ATTITUDE of this corps of expert observers is that the two-year session has indeed been a failure. One of the strong criticisms was the last-minute logjams. "In my opinion," said one, "little if anything has been gained by the change. We still get the big push at the end. And if members need to get legislation which has been killed, they seem to find some way of doing it. Both houses are very bad about suspending the rules and allowing nearly any violation to occur."

Another, terming the two-year session "synonymous with procrastination, duplication of effort, and bait to introduce meaningless legislation", said that "an overabundance of bills, most of them non-substantive, has resulted in the greatest logjam in legislative history."

One advocate contended "the biennial session is the ultimate answer to proper consideration for serious legislation, but it has not worked and won't work until the legislature, like Congress, adopts the system where major bills become committee bills rather than those of individuals." His point is that very often "pride of authorship" blocks amendments which would turn a proposal into a good measure.

Proxy and "ghost" voting was also roundly condemned by lobbyists who termed these practices "an absolute farce".

THEIR CRITICISM bordered on utter disgust, contending the present operations have resulted in hasty, ill-conceived laws. But most made constructive suggestions for improvements. Summed up, most opted for shorter sessions, strict limitations on bill introductions, and better scheduling of committee hearings.

They were bitter about the constant revival of measures which had been heard and defeated. Some favored the return to one-year sessions. Some even favored the return to meetings only once every other year.

The observations of the "third house," as the lobbyist group is commonly called, are most significant. They have been around a long time and most are former legislators. Like most Americans they prefer to play the game by established rules.

College's Tutorial Service Needs Money

Tutoring, to be most effective, should be done on a one-to-one basis. However, now because of lack of funds, the tutorial service in the Independent Study Center has had to double up students with tutors.

If the money situation doesn't improve soon, the center may have to discontinue much of the tutoring offered or charge students for it.

It's inexcusable to allow this to happen. The tutorial services offer vital help to many students. Instead of cutting back these services, they should be expanded and put back on a one-to-one basis. College is supposed to be for students, and any important student services should not be placed in jeopardy for lack of funds.

I urge the College of Marin board of trustees to take immediate action to give financial support to the Independent Study Center's tutorial services.

Veteran Unable To Collect Benefits

I find the conditions deplorable in these United States when a veteran has trouble getting his benefits from the government so that he can go to school to reestablish himself as a productive member of this society. Since starting school on 22 July, in a veteran approved school, I have yet to receive any of my veterans benefits.

Inquiring at the Veterans Administration regional office, 211 Main St., San Francisco, the only answer I get is they don't have an address for me. This is still the answer after numerous inquiries made on my behalf by Mrs. Nelson and Mr. Burdick of the Veterans Benefits Office in Marin County; Mr. Pete Reckas, veterans representative at the College of Marin; Miss Amy Zins of Sen. Alan S. Cranston's Office in San Francisco, and after I personally made an inquiry on 2 Oct.

I feel that the Veterans Administration regional office in San Francisco is a mismanaged organization with no coordination of effort. Further, I feel that Mr. Tom Anderson, a supervisor at the regional office has an ineffective quality control program and from any dealings has very little knowledge of the conditions of his office.

After trying for the past two and a half months to get my benefits I have met with frustration and failure . .

I am behind in my rent payments and face eviction, the bank is threatening to repossess my car and my credit rating is in jeopardy.

I would like to ask where does one go after he has tried practically every means to receive entitled benefits? Does not the veteran receive any kind of consideraton? Is it too much to ask that the present system employed at the Veterans Administration regional office be investigated, so that others don't have the same problems I am presently experiencing? . . .

New Items Disclose State Of The World

There are two items in today's news about which I should like to make comment. The first is of local origin, that of a letter from Judith Weston of Bolinas in her attack on you for printing the tragedy of the poisoned child at Halloween. Ms. Weston wonders what you accomplish in the publication of such items. I can say that what is accomplished is the dissemination of crucial information which tells us the state which the nation is in, and warns parents that even they are subject to behavioral pressures which can lead to, or influence the occurrence of tragedy . . .

The second item is that of the world body which is debating food, and in its deliberations is attacking the United States for not doing enough. I am afraid that this familiar refrain is all too favorite with the United Nations. In the terrible happenings in Africa, particularly the starvation in the seven nations of the Sahil area, the Organization for African Unity did nothing, and Ethiopia, the leader of the body, persuaded that forum to vote instead some $60 million to arm and assist the "freedom fighters" against Rhodesia, Portugal and South Africa. They went further, and banned South Africa from the World Food Organization, the World Health Organization, and tried even from the U.N. body itself. Here was lost the foremost African technical experts in food growing, and tropical diseases, and a wealth of aid and assistance, all which had been offered at no cost . . .

Let the Africa Bloc court the Arab Bloc, and between themselves, see if they can save their own people with even one per cent of the success that the early Americans and the despised Colonials did. Let their bellyaches be real, and their action productive instead of critical.

Slaughter Of Livestock No Cure For Inflation

It is becoming almost a daily occurrence for me to flip through the newspaper to find an article dealing with the slaughter of many head of cattle. The farmers and ranchers are trying to fight the high cost of materials needed for ranching, but I am not too sure about their methods. We all are faced with inflation; it is not just them that have been affected by the increase in prices. The cost of living has increased tremendously, with yet no end in sight. We feel that it is almost a crime to pay the ridiculous prices that some foods have stamped on them, meat being on the top of the list. It is, though, as much of a crime to pay for the food as it is to waste it? I think not. Here we are in a society that contains the extremes, the very rich and the very poor, and we are taking food, worth almost its weight in gold, and burying it in the ground, denying thousands of really needy people the chance of actually having a somewhat decent meal. If this isn't considered a crime, moreover a sin, I really don't know what is.

The answer to the problem of inflation is not a simple one. I for one could not even begin to find a solution; however, I do know that the solution does not lie in the needless slaughter of livestock. We live in a country that needs so very much, and when actions like these are taken it only shows that we need a lot more than we figured.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Millions of Americans went to the polls last week, and several of them insisted on voting Republican.

Putting it another way, the coattail theory of the elections is that Republicans who ran behind Ford ran behind.

It's just as well that a bordello madam wasn't elected to the Nevada legislature. That saved her from being asked, "What's a nice girl like you doing in a place like this?"

Fragmentation Of Own Party Handicaps British Premier

LONDON — The British had a general election three weeks ago. It resulted in a modest success for Harold Wilson's Labor Party. It is back in office with an overall margin of three seats in the House of Commons.

Is it conceivable that Mr. Wilson is so skillful a politician that, even with such a narrow margin, he can safely steer Britain between inflation and depression and avoid the economic disaster which so many think must come, perhaps before this winter is over?

Mr. Wilson is an agile politician. Some observers think he is the ablest political tactician these islands have seen since the days of David Lloyd George. But is even that enough to overcome the appalling combination he labors under of unprecedented economic problems plus a most serious rift in his own party?

HE HAS ONE ASSET as he settles down to his winter's work. The opposition Conservatives are virtually leaderless and totally uncertain about their future. Edward Heath remains their titular leader, but having lost a second election in less than a year, he has lost a second election in less than a year, he has lost the confidence of the rank and file of the party. Its younger members yearn for new and younger leadership.

It will probably take the Tories at least six months to agree among themselves on a new leader. There are half a dozen possibilities; no one with a clear lead.

One bright hopeful, Sir Keith Joseph, has just successfully eliminated himself by publicly advocating birth control for the poor. That is not the way to attract lower economic class votes back to the party of Benjamin Disraeli — who knew exactly how to do just that.

Peter Walker, age 46, has come forward with a different slant. In a speech, obviously built as a launching platform to higher things, he took the opposite tack from Sir Keith. Instead of preaching austerity and restraint by workers and other lower-class people, Mr. Walker declared that the Conservative Party "must face the challenge of the latter part of the 20th century, the challenge of humanizing the industrial system."

But as yet Mr. Walker is only another name to the average voter. There are a dozen other young Tories as promising, so far as anyone can yet see, and as obscure.

THE TORIES CAN DO little against Mr. Wilson so long as he can hold his own party together. But when one looks over the Labor Party of today, one begins to think that Ulysses had an easy time of it steering his ship between Scylla and Charibdis. His crew occasionally grumbled, but never really threatened to mutiny.

The British Labor Party has been a precarious combination of incompatible elements from almost its birth. It seems more so today than ever. The division is concealed from general view by the labels of British politics. All members of the Labor Party pay lip service to Mr. Wilson's leadership, and all call themselves Laborites.

But in fact there is a left wing which in any continental country would be identified as Socialist or Communist. There is a right wing which on the continent would be called Social Democrat. In Mr. Wilson's party the Social Democrats outnumber the Socialists and Communists by better than two to one.

The sincere and convinced Marxists are out to trip Mr. Wilson up on any incidental issue which comes along. They are relentless and merciless. They believe in changing the British political and economic system. They do not mind if their tactics cause Mr. Wilson to fail to solve Britain's economic problems.

SOME POLITICAL OBSERVERS think that this winter may well see the end of the present British political pattern. They strongly doubt that Mr. Wilson can hold his party together. They foresee economic issues splitting the Labor Party down the middle and opening the way for a new alignment of political forces.

The one clear fact is that the future leadership of Britain is just as uncertain as is the future political leadership of the United States. At least Americans can know that Gerald Ford is likely to be their president until January of 1977. The British can't even be sure that Harold Wilson will be prime minister by next June.

Coalitions Misnamed Parties Handicap American Leadership

The fact that the United States has never had real political parties, but only coalitions going under the name of parties, has always been at the very best a mixed blessing.

It has meant that power, which the Founding Fathers carefully sought to fragment, has been divided within the parties (coalitions) themselves, as well as among the three branches of government and the federal and local governments.

SOMETIMES THIS has been a safeguard against the abuse of power by a strong coalition holding both White House and Congress. Even very forceful presidents like Franklin D. Roosevelt have had to make important concessions to dissenting elements in their own parties.

It also has made it possible for presidents facing adverse party majorities in Congress to construct an ad hoc coalition of support. President Eisenhower's administration often was able to do this.

Whether now an ad hoc coalition in support of Ford administration measures could be constructed — except on issues on which the nation is manifestly united — is open to doubt.

The real price paid by the American people for not having unified political parties has been in impotence and delay. When strength was needed, it has often been lacking. Leadership has not existed, or has not been able to coalesce a strong basis of support.

SO IT IS NOW. President Ford is handicapped by his inheritance from the Nixon administration, by the massive defeat at the polls, and by the absence of policies of his own which have satisfied public or congressional opinion. This does not mean that his administration cannot emerge from the miasmas of the recent past, but it can only do so with policies devised by and administered through a greatly improved leadership team, chiefly in the regular cabinet departments.

Congress and the Democratic Party have been equally ineffective. There is no leader of the Democratic Party, nothing faintly resembling the "shadow" prime minister or cabinet in parliamentary government. There are important measures the Democrats in Congress want to push through — health insurance and tax reform foremost among them — but these are not fully central to the problems of inflation and recession.

There is no outstanding Democrat moving toward the presidential nomination in 1976, nor indeed any group of really impressive individuals vying for the opportunity. Most of the hopefuls are handicapped in one way or another, chiefly by being relatively unknown.

IN THIS STATE of leaderlessness, despite the electoral defeat, there is a tremendous opportunity for President Ford. However, he cannot effectively lead the nation by simply abetting the Congress to build up a "do-nothing" reputation. Some observers say this will be his purpose, emulating President Truman in 1948.

Of course any such negative policy would be tragically inadequate. The country cannot afford two years of inaction or stalemate. If the president generates a strong program, which broadly appeals to the country, and if Congress turns it down, he might have an electoral platform. But neither Congress nor president should be so negative. There must be cooperation and ultimate agreement.

The president will certainly not get all he wants. The presently pending program, including the 5 per cent surtax, does not appeal to Congress. The tide has turned somewhat away from anti-inflation sentiment. And yet a reasonable compromise is possible. It need be neither reckless spending nor disregard of social need. It will almost surely be a relatively "liberal" program, reflecting the views of the new majorities, but with some fiscal restraint present.

A somewhat left-of-center majority has emerged in the fluid mix of the two parties. The Ford administration could come to terms with this will of the country, and perhaps lead it. The nation requires both a strong presidency and a strong Congress. Neither side will gain by trying to trip up the other. And the very variability of coalition politics might help, though the pitfalls are many.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"I want to thank everybody for the hundreds of letters that they wrote about me saying that they make some kind of provision for the using of the knowledge of our ex-presidents. Of course, there was some that disagreed, but fortunately there was only about a dozen, but they were pretty hostile. They insinuated that I must be in the employ of the ex-presidents association. And reading between the lines of their letters, I know that they thought the principal thing wrong with my plan was that it applied to Republican ex-presidents, as well as Democratic ones. But if I rubbed out the Republican one, the plan would be O.K." — Jan. 14, 1934.

How Farfel Fooled Networks Into Naming Wrong Winner

CANTON, Ohio — On election night, millions and millions of Americans watched as the NBC and ABC television networks announced that, according to their computers, Gov. John Gilligan had defeated former Gov. James Rhodes in Ohio.

Governor Rhodes, like all of us, was so impressed by the fact that two out of three networks had given the election to Governor Gilligan that he conceded on the spot and went to bed certain he was a loser. When he woke up the next morning he discovered that, although the network computers had declared Gilligan the winner, the real votes showed that Rhodes was ahead by 12,000 votes.

What went wrong?

I HAPPENED TO BE in Canton, Ohio, so I went over to a sample precinct 50 miles away, one that both ABC and NBC had used to decide Gilligan had won. I will call the place Bellwether because the networks like to keep their sample precincts secret.

Most of the people in town had long faces. The man in the coffee shop told me, "We're not proud of it. NBC and ABC were depending on us and we let them down."

Another man at the counter said, "We've been a sample precinct for four elections. We've got 10 per cent Italians, 10 per cent Jews, 10 per cent Irish, 10 per cent blacks, 40 per cent women, and 20 per cent miscellaneous. We were a perfect mix."

"But what happened?" I said.

"WHO'S FARFEL?"

"He runs a gas station at the end of Main Street. After he came out of the voting booth, he told NBC and ABC he had voted for Gilligan, when in fact he had voted for Rhodes. They fed Farfel's vote into their computers and, bang, they declared Gilligan the winner."

"Why don't you ask him? No one else is talking to him, so he has plenty of time on his hands."

I WENT DOWN to Farfel's gas station. I found him sitting next to his gas pump playing a harmonica.

"Mr. Farfel," I said, "I hear you screwed up the sample precinct in Bellwether and got NBC and ABC to declare Gilligan the next governor of Ohio."

Farfel chuckled, "Yup, danged if I didn't."

"Why did you do it?"

"Wal, I tell you, son. I'm one of those old-timers that don't like no television hotshots telling me who won an election before all the votes have been counted. I mean, you turn on the set and some sharp feller in a $300 suit says, 'With 2 per cent of the vote in, we declared John J. Pumpkin the next senator of Michigan.' Takes all the fun out of election night. I don't want no computer declaring who my governor is going to be. So this year I decided to fix 'em good. I'm half-Italian and half-English, so them network boys had it figured out that if I voted for Gilligan 350,000 Italians and 350,000 Church of England had voted for him, too."

"BUT, MR. FARFEL, the networks spend millions of dollars on computers and hire the best experts in the business. How can they run an honest election if you lie to them in a sample precinct?"

"No skin off my nose. They should be reporting election results and not projecting winners on the basis of what some Ph.D. feeds into a machine. I want to tell you, son, I never had so much fun as when NBC declared Gilligan the winner. I liked to have died laughing because I was the only one in the whole state who knew Rhodes was going to be our governor."

"You know, Mr. Farfel, everyone in town is mad at you. NBC has decided that you can no longer be a sample precinct. It's quite a blow to the pride of the community. Don't you have the slightest regret for what you did?"

"Only one, son. I'm sorry I made a fool out of Barbara Walters. She seems like such a nice girl."

Squaw Valley Buyer Says It's For Sale

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The company that bought the site of the 1960 Olympics in Squaw Valley from the state will offer its holdings for sale for $17 million, the Sacramento Bee reported today.

The newspaper quoted John Poimiroo, a spokesman for Mainline Properties of America, saying the company would sell the ski area immediately if a buyer offered the full price.

The subsidiary of an Australian company paid the state $2.5 million in March for the 1,200 acres that were the site of the 1960 Winter Olympic Games.

Since that time, the company has purchased additional land in the area and has been involved in a $2 million renovation program to make the ski area a more attractive resort, the newspaper said.

Mainline Corporation Ltd. of Sydney, Australia, the parent firm of the owners, has gone into receivership after severe financial problems.

Poimiroo said the company might not sell the property if the parent's corporation's fiscal problems are resolved.

Russian Shoe Factories Lagging Behind Fashion

MOSCOW (UPI) — It takes so long to design and make shoes in the Soviet Union that they are out of fashion even before reaching the stores.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said it takes as long as two years to get a shoe from the drawing board to the shop. By this time, the original fashion idea has passed into history.

Pravda said shoe factories are interested only in fulfilling their production targets and often ignore their designers altogether to produce merely what is easy to make.

"It is the old contradiction between quality and quantity," Pravda said.

"Millions of pairs of shoes are in the shops and no one buys them. When it is clear that they will never be sold, their price is reduced and they are removed to the special thrift shops."

In this way, Pravda said, the state loses $1.48 billion each year in lost shoe sales alone.

The delay in getting shoes to market is so great that even in Ulyanovsk-home of one of the country's largest shoe factories with an annual production of five million pairs — it is impossible to buy a fashionable pair of shoes.

Nor is there much encouragement for good design. Pravda said a good artist is paid less than a skilled worker.

Admission will be $1 or 75 cents a person for those in groups of 10 or more.

USC Honors 2 Musicians

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The trustees of the University of Southern California Tuesday committed $2 million to establish the Jascha Heifetz and Gregor Piatigorsky chairs in music, to be occupied by the famous musicians themselves.

Heifetz, the master violinist, and Piatigorsky, top ranked cellist, have taught at USC since 1962, and will be the first to occupy the professional positions which will bear their names in perpetuity. "These grants of $1 million each from USC's trustees to honor these two men, who are the greatest in their fields, inaugurate a new style of giving to the arts in Los Angeles," USC President John R. Hubbard said.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Nitrogen, light air pollution.
Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, heavy air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Variable high cloudiness through tomorrow, with patchy morning fog; high tomorrow in 60s to low 70s; low tonight in the 40s to low 50s; northwest winds 5 to 15 m.p.h.

Napa and Sonoma Valleys: Fair through tomorrow, except for variable high clouds plus local fog in the morning; low tonight and high tomorrow at Santa Rosa 41 and 68; light winds.

Worshipers Kill Armed Robber

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Worshipers at a Seventh Day Adventist Church beat to death a 20-year old man attempting an armed robbery of the congregation during a prayer service.

Police said yesterday one of the churchgoers was wounded when the bandit's gun went off after he was attacked by the congregation. A second holdup man, armed with a knife, fled.

Minister Warms Baby Baptism

BASON, England (UPI) — The Rev. Gordon Blacktop says that at christenings, "nothing is more frightening for a baby than to be taken from the warm arms of a godmother, and then splashed with freezing water."

So he has the answer: warm baptismal water that he keeps in a thermos.

TONIGHT'S TELEVISION

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8 p.m. — "Life at the End of the World," a voyage of discovery to the tip of South America in the wake of Magellan, is the first of four specials on "The Undersea World of Jacues Cousteau," award-winning adventure series, to be shown tonight. Cousteau will explore life as it exists today, both above and below the waters, in what was once thought to be the end of the world.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9 p.m. — "Conquest of the Planet of the Apes," the fourth film in the series and the one in which the enslaved apes take control of the planet Earth from the humans, will be shown on "The Thursday Night Movies." Roddy McDowall stars, and Ricardo Montalban is Armando.

New TV Game Isn't Seen On The Tube

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly every game show on TV has a play-at-home version on sale in toy stores. But a new play-at-home TV game now coming on the market isn't seen on television. Nor is it likely to be.

The game is "Switch." It's being sold by mail by Action for Children's Television, an activist group which since 1968 has demanded higher quality children's programs without commercials on television.

The general aim of the $1.5 plaything "is to let families know there's something else to life than television," says Peggy Charren, president of ACT, based in Newtonville, Mass.

The game, printed on folding paper, starts with an imaginary TV set switched "on." it takes a player a maximum of 56 movies, fewer if luck prevails to reach victory, which in this case is "off."

There are 10 draw cards which let the combatants make from one to five moves at a time. They must thread their way through a total of three commercials, one technical difficulty, one station break and 19 shows with such names as "The Braided Bunch" and "Tarred Wreks."

En route, they get five "switch" alternatives, such as one switch to public TV or a switch "from buying a toy to making one."

The players pick their commercials from a stack of commercial cards for such imaginary goodies as "Glop Top," a soft drink, or "Capri Cavity Granules." They have to get rid of the cards to move to new positions.

"Since you can't win until you do that," says Mrs. Charren, "we hope the children — and we hope their parents play the game with them — will really learn what the switches mean.

"What they're saying is to switch off, to try another kind of activity, like walking or reading a book, or avoiding the sugar foods sold on children's television, or switching from buying the expensive toys that seem to make up almost all the toy advertising on TV this season."

She said the game isn't sold in stores, only at ACT, which has ordered a first-round printing of 20,000 "Switch" sheets.

Fewer Offenders Sent To Prisons

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of youths and adults sent to state correction institutions during the 1973-74 fiscal year was reduced by 5,027 as a result of California's probation subsidy program, according to the Youth Authority director.

Allen F. Breed yesterday said the total was 422 less than the 5,449 kept out of institutions during the previous 12-month period and may be an indication that the community rehabilitation program had "bottomed out" for the first time in its eight-year history.

The state turned over $20.2 million to the 47 participating counties to finance the rehabilitation of offenders who otherwise would have been committed to institutions and prisons.

'Sanford And Son' Tops Evening Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's most popular evening TV show last week was NBC's "Sanford and Son," followed by CBS' "All in the Family" and "The Waltons," according to A. C. Nielsen ratings figures.

The ratings, for the week of Nov. 4-10, showed that the three networks' Nov. 5 election night coverage wasn't an overwhelming viewer attraction during the prime evening hours.

The highest-rated election night coverage — that of CBS — was viewed over a three-hour period in nearly 9.8 million homes, according to the Nielsen estimates.

By comparison, "Sanford and Son," a Friday night situation comedy, was seen in nearly 21.2 million homes during its half-hour turn on the tube.

NBC's election night coverage was seen in about 9.3 million homes, while that of ABC, which has fewer affiliates than the other networks, was seen in about 6.2 million homes, according to Nielsen figures.

The 20-most popular shows on television last week, according to the ratings, were: "Sanford and Son" (NBC); "All in the Family" and "The Waltons" (both CBS); "Chico and the Man" (NBC); "Rhoda" (CBS); "Maude" and "Kojak" both (CBS); "ABC Sunday Movie;" "Rockford Files" (NBC); "Gunsmoke," ::CBS Thursday Movie" and "Cannon" (all CBS); "The Rookies" (ABC); "Sunday Mystery Movie" (NBC); "Bob Newhart" and "Mary Tyler Moore" both (CBS); "Streets of San Francisco" (ABC) and "Police Woman" (NBC).

Quake Shakes Alaskan Wilds

Three Cheers For Sammy Vick

A few columns back, I made mention of a United Press International item which said that long-time Chicago Bears head man George Halas was the New York Yankees right fielder before Babe Ruth.

Upon checking the item, I found that Halas did indeed play for the Yankees in 1919, the year prior to the Babe's joining the team, and had appeared in a grand total of 12 games. He was hardly the Yanks' regular right fielder with so few games in the record book.

Dick MacCabe of Ross helped out by dropping me a line saying that Ping Bodie was really the Yankees' regular right fielder in 1919. Now comes the final chapter (I promise), in a letter sent by Mike Burke of San Rafael and Brad Curtis of Moraga. It was complete with photostat copies of pages out of The Baseball Encyclopedia to back up the words. Wrote Burke and Curtis:

"We'd like to set the corrected record straight for the 1919-1920 New York Yankees' and George Halas' brief career. First, George Halas did play six games in right field in 1919. He was a pinch hitter (0-4) in four others and a pinch runner in the remaining two. We agree, then, that Halas could hardly be anything other than a substitute.

"However, all you San Francisco Seals fans may have had Ping Bodie in right field for Chicago and Philadelphia before he was traded, but he played left and center field for the Yankees in 1918-1920. Actually, Frank (Flash) Gilhooley was the regular right fielder in 1918, with Elmer Miller in center and Ping in left. In 1919, Sammy Vick returned from military service to play right field and Duffy Lewis (also out of the service) came from Boston to play left. Ping Bodie was the regular center fielder. In 1920, Babe Ruth took over in right field, Ping Bodie and Duffy Lewis remained in center and left, respectively.

"Thus, in 1919 Sammy Vick played 100 games in right field. A converted infielder — Chick Fewster — played 41 games; George Halas, 6 games; and Ping Bodie, 5 games. So, let's give Sammy Vick the credit for being replaced by Babe Ruth in right field for the Yankees."

So, all you baseball fans, let's hear a loud cheer for Sammy Vick, a grand man of the game who in five years of major league ball had a .248 batting average. There's no telling to what heights Sammy would have reached if the Babe had not come along.

SHORT SHOTS:

Michelle Allan is the lone female on the College of Marin junior varsity basketball team. A sophomore, Michelle didn't go out for the team last year but played four years at San Rafael High School on the girls team. "It's tougher, of course," she says about keeping up with her Marin teammates.

Robert J. Foley of Lafayette will be succeeding Raymond F. Luce of Kentfield as president of the Northern California Golf Association. Elections were held last Friday at Lake Merced Golf and Country Club. Luce, a member of the Meadow Club, will be one of 16 directors in the golf association.

Shutout Was Not On Meloche's Mind

Goalie Concerned With Win

OAKLAND (AP) — "I was never thinking shutout," confided goalie Gilles Meloche, but that's exactly what he did as the California Golden Seals handed the Chicago Black Hawks their fourth straight hockey loss, 2-0.

"I've had so much bad luck this year that all I wanted was a win," said Meloche, who successfully repelled 28 shots last night to register his first victory of the National Hockey League season. Meloche had given up at least four goals in each of four losses and four ties earlier this year.

"Meloche has been coming along all the time and his goals against average are not a true picture," said Seals coach Marshall Johnston. "I'm really happy for him because if anybody had a right to complain in the past he did, but he never got down and lost his confidence."

The victory was only the Seals' third this season, all of which have come at home.

Defenseman Bob Stewart scored California's first goal at 15:24 of the first period when he intercepted a pass in Chicago territory, flipped to Butch Williams and then took a return pass before firing the puck between the legs of goaltender Tony Esposito from about 15 feet away.

"It was one of my better offensive games as far as moving the puck," said Stewart.

GILLES MELOCHE
Tough vs. Chicago

"I'm starting to carry it more."

Williams scored the Seals' insurance goal at 11:35 of the third period while both he and Esposito were down during a scramble in front of the Chicago net.

"The puck was just there and I hooked it in," said the right winger, who was playing his first game with the Seals since being obtained in a trade Sunday with St. Louis.

Williams' goal was disputed. The Hawks claimed a Seal player was in the goalie's crease when Williams scored. Chicago's Bill Russell drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty for arguing with the referee over the tally.

The loss was the third straight shutout for the Black Hawks, who hadn't been blanked in four seasons before this.

The Seals tomorrow will host the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs, who lead California by one point in the NHL's Division 4.

California	1	0	1	— 2

Matter Of Pride To Victorious Redwood

By DAVID EINSTEIN

It was a challenge match, with nothing at stake but pride. Yet pride is the strongest emotion in athletics, and yesterday it turned an open field in Mill Valley into a championship arena.

Beneath darkening skies and surrounded by more than 500 fans, Redwood High School polished off Mount Tamalpais, 5-1 to become the unofficial but undisputed champions of Marin County High school soccer.

"I've been up for this damn game for three weeks," a Redwood player said to no one in particular, and it was apparent that the rest of the Giants were equally excited. They were playing in answer to a challenge.

And, with center halfback Rob Ewert and left wing Steve School leading the way, they displayed the style and power that made them undefeated champs of the Marin County Athletic League.

The challenge had come from Mt. Tam coach Rusty Taylor, whose team rolled to a 16-2 overall record and was unbeaten in winning the Bay Counties League championship. Afterward he said candidly, "We didn't play . . . anywhere near par. We were tight, very tight, but they were always there. They're a good team."

"The better the team we face, the better we play," Redwood coach John Perrotis said, and "Mt. Tam is the best we've played. They're No. 2."

The game began with the teams trading goals in the first eight minutes. Manny Natsios put Redwood in front with a five-yard shot from the middle, and George Ai tied it on a penalty shot from 10 yards.

The rest of the first half saw Mt. Tam hold the initiative, but Redwood's defense tightened. The Giants took the lead for good when Ewert cashed in a penalty shot with 10 minutes left in the half.

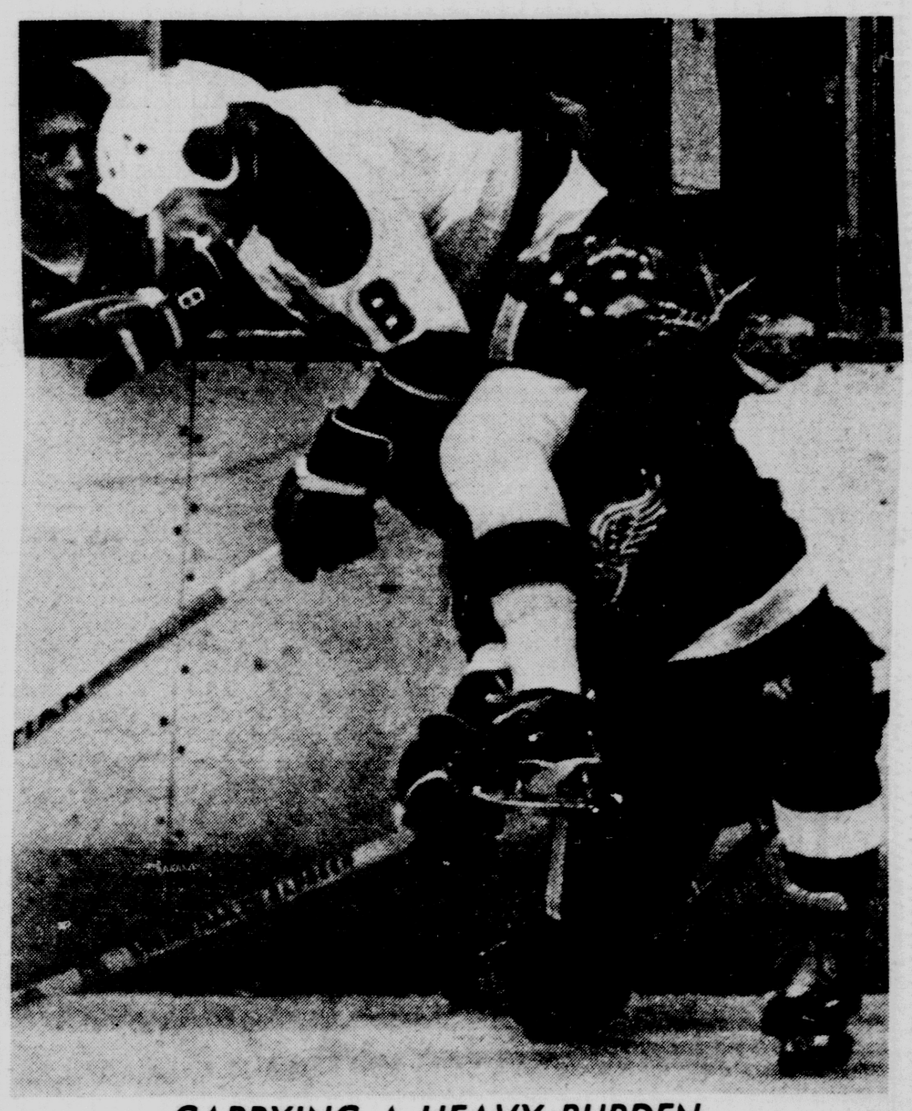

After the intermission, it was all Redwood. Scholl scored twice, from in front of the goal with 15 minutes gone, and from the left side with only seconds remaining to play. Sandwiched between those points was a junk shot by Tom Villasenor after Mt. Tam goalie Jim Tufts vacated the net trying for a save.

The difference in the second half was the Redwood defense, notably fullbacks Eric Wahl, Paul Bettinger and Dave Del Grande in the middle. The Giants also had more depth, while Mt. Tam had to exhaust its starters.

Outstanding for Mt. Tam was Ned Pinger, a right forward who consistently was able to outmaneuver people and bring the ball downfield. Tufts also had a good afternoon, considering the scoring against him.

The entire study body of Mt. Tam seemed to be present, having been bused over. But Redwood had a surprisingly large contingent also, especially since the game was arranged on one day's notice.

"Al Endriss (athletic director) told me that unless I win, no check," Perrotis smiled. "Now I want a raise."

CARRYING A HEAVY BURDEN

Detroit Red Wings' Jack Lynch carried a heavy load on his shoulders in the form of North Stars' Bill Goldsworthy during the first period of National Hockey League play last night in Bloomington, Minn. Goldsworthy ended up on Lynch's shoulders, while they were racing to the puck near the boards. Minnesota won, 7-4. See story, page 41.

WRONG CHOICE?

MVP Awarding Angers Brock

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Lou Brock, denied the National League's Most Valuable Player award after the best season of his 13-year major-league career, was quoted yesterday as saying, "If I steal a thousand bases next year, and they offer me the MVP, I wouldn't accept it."

Brock, who finished second to Los Angeles Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America, set a major-league record of 118 stolen bases this past season. His remarks were published by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

(Brock was in Chicago filming a documentary on his life. An agent described him as "very bitter" over the MVP award but said he was not available for further comment.)

The St. Louis Cardinals' left fielder, who remained even-tempered and composed throughout his pressure-packed race to break Maury Wills' 12-year-old record of 104 steals, was bitter about his exclusion from the top award and accused the sports writers of "bad judgment." Wills won the MVP award in 1962.

Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst said, "It's really hard to understand how they voted. I don't know what else anyone could ask Brock to do. He helped the rest of our team by keeping the other club shook up."

Cardinals coach Vern Benson said, "I'd hate to think where we'd have been without Lou. He obviously kept us in the race."

"They (the voting writers) have been consistent," Brock said. "They have been showing consistently bad judgment for three years."

Brock was criticizing the voters for not choosing Willie Stargell or Billy Williams for the MVP award in recent years.

What especially irked Brock was that six writers chose him no higher than fourth place even though Brock was rated at least even to get the award.

When Schoendienst learned that two writers voted for Brock for seventh and eighth place, he said: "Oh, my God."

The award is based on points, with players getting a higher number of points according to the ranking by the writers.

Brock later was quoted as saying, "I was not pleased with the result of the balloting, but my hat's off to Steve Garvey."

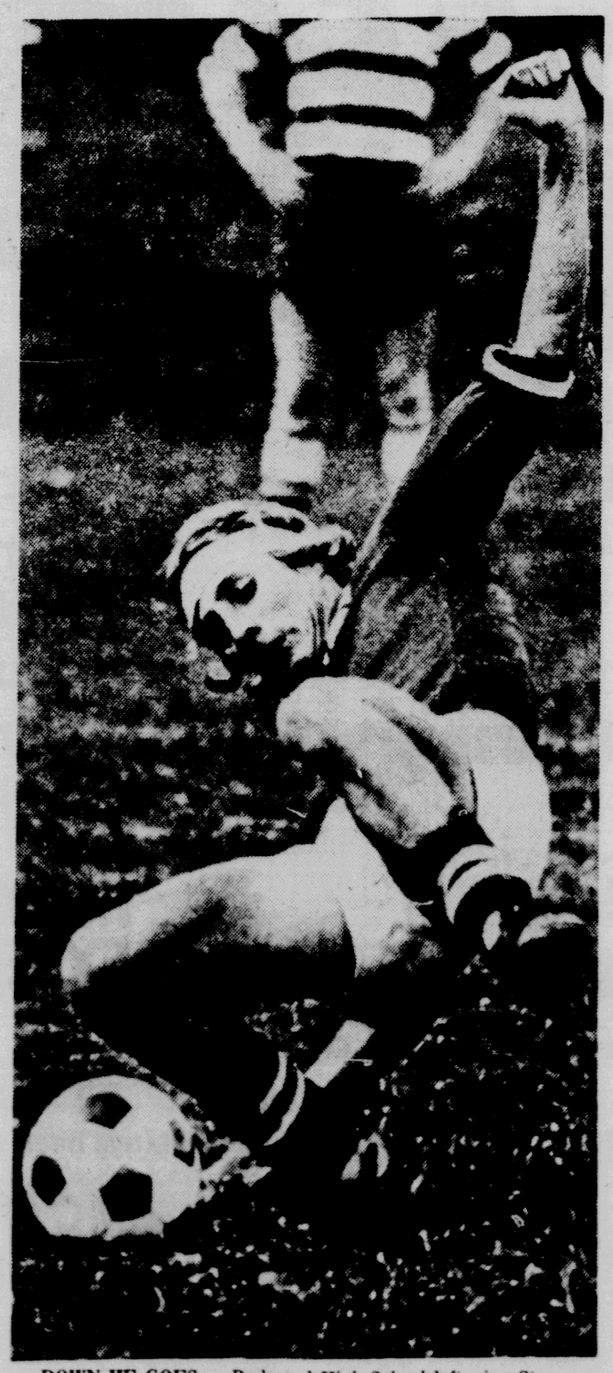

SOCCER TOURNEY SUNDAY

Forty-two teams in three boys' divisions will be competing in the second annual Marin County Youth Soccer Tournament which begins Sunday.

The tournament has divisional play in three age categories: under 14s, under 12s and under 10s. Format is a single elimination.

Under 14s play at Tam High; under 12s at Henry C. Hall in Larkspur, White Hill School in Fairfax, Del Mar School in Tiburon, Memorial Park in San Anselmo and Kent School in Kentfield; under 10s play at Henry C. Hall, Ross School, White Hill, Memorial Park in San Anselmo, Del Mar School and Kent School.

The three championship games will be held on the weekend of Dec. 7-8.

San Rafael Harriers Win Crown

San Rafael High School yesterday won its second consecutive North Coast Division III championship and Marin County Athletic League teams made their strongest showing ever.

Three of the four qualifying cross country teams for next Tuesday's North Coast Championships are from the MCAL. San Rafael won yesterday's meet at Lake Lagunitas near Fairfax with 35 points, followed by Redwood with 41, Petaluma with 94 and Drake with 146. Those four teams qualify for the North Coast meet at St. Mary's College in Moraga.

San Rafael's victory was achieved by tight grouping which saw San Rafael place six

Conner, Zoller Lead Qualifiers

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Conner of San Antonio and Fuzzy Zoller of New Albany, Ind., fired 71s yesterday to take the second round lead at 141 in the Professional Golfers Association qualifying school golf tourney on the South Course at Silverado Country Club.

Tied at 142 were Bobby Wadkins, brother of touring pro Lanny Wadkins, and Tom Story with 142. First round leader Greg Trompas of San Diego shot a 76 and fell to a 144 score.

After four rounds here, the competitors will play four more rounds at Canyon Country Club in Palm Springs.

Former Duke Star Returns As Recruiter

The Kinston native has also seen action with the Atlanta Falcons, the Los Angeles Rams and the Buffalo Bills. He was traded to the Giants in the spring.

Hart, a member of the all-ACC team in 1968, 1969 and 1970, holds virtually every career passing mark in the Duke and ACC record books. During his three years with the Blue Devils he completed 497 of 871 attempts for 6,116 yards and 23 touchdowns. Hart is currently ranked as the sixth leading passer in college football history.

New York Has Seen Enough Of ABA Bird

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Averitt came off the bench last night to spark the Kentucky Colonels to a 132-129 double overtime victory over the Nets. It was the second straight time Averitt has blitzed the Nets. In a meeting of the one-two teams in the American Basketball Association East Saturday night, Averitt also came off the bench to lead Kentucky to victory.

Averitt hit 12 of his 27 points in the two overtime periods as the Colonels ran their record to 11-1, best in the league. New York, which got 44 points from Julius Erving, 17 of them in overtime, now is 9-6.

The Nets led all the way up into the final period, when Louis Dampier, who led the Colonels with 32 points, pulled Kentucky into a tie. Larry Kenon added 30 for the Nets and Billy Paultz had 24.

Spirits 97, Sounds 92

Stars 114, Pacers 103

Nuggets 132, Q's 108

Mack Calvin scored 29 points and Byron Beck 26 to lead Denver over San Diego.

Game Six Tickets For Raiders Sunday

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland Raider fans are reminded that the team will honor only tickets for game number 6 and dated Oct. 13 for Sunday's game with San Diego at the Coliseum.

That game was switched to San Diego because of the conflict with the A's World Series and Sunday's scheduled battle at San Diego was shifted north. About 1,500 tickets remained unsold at last count and local television appeared doubtful.

Heavyweight Fight Tonight At Olympic

Smith, the California heavyweight champion, is 19-1 with 15 knockouts. Gorsito, of New York, is 16-6-1. Gorsito is a late substitution for Frank Steele.

WORLD FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Rising Debts And Sinking Credibility

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The World Football League has finally settled its playoff picture — everyone made it but Shreveport. The fledgling league's first campaign, begun last summer with 12 franchises and high hopes, struggles to its conclusion tonight with nine more or less active clubs, rising debts and sinking credibility.

Florida visits Southern California in the nationally-televised regular-season finale. Both teams have already clinched playoff berths.

Florida players haven't seen any paychecks in 11 weeks, but a new set of owners is allegedly bringing in fresh money via a Swiss bank. Southern California players got their last paychecks about a week late and some front-office personnel still haven't seen theirs. The team is hoping to get new financial backing by game time.

Charlotte meets Florida, Birmingham plays Philadelphia, Southern Cal takes on Hawaii and Portland goes against Memphis in the first round of the playoffs. The league is supposed to disclose the when and where of the games today.

There were three games played last night. Birmingham rolled over Shreveport 40-7, Memphis got by Charlotte 28-22 and the Hawaiians blanked Portland 23-0.

The Americans had a much easier time with Shreveport than they did earlier in the day in Jefferson County Circuit Court. The state of Alabama, claiming Birmingham owed more than 1$00,000 in taxes to state, city and county governments, obtained a lien against the club's property, including gate receipts, until the taxes are paid.

The team didn't seem to mind, though, romping to its 15th victory in 20 outings. Linebacker Warren Capone ran 29 yards with an intercepted pass for one touchdown and blocked a punt and recovered a fumble to set up two others. Jimmy Edwards ran for one score and caught passes from George Mira and Matt Reed for two more.

At Memphis, where the crowd was announced at 13,399, the Southmen wound up with a 17-3 record — tops in the WFL. Danny White threw touchdown passes of seven and 27 yards to Ed Marshall and J. J. Jennings rushed for 99 yards for Memphis.

In Honolulu, the Hawaiians erupted in the second half to whip paycheck-plagued Portland. The Storm, 7-12-1, didn't even stay around for the final gun.

The Portland players, who got their first paychecks in several weeks Tuesday, stalked off the field with two seconds left when the Hawaiians, 9-11, socred a late touchdown.

The Hawaiians' first touchdown came in the third period when quarterback Randy Johnson connected with John Esenbarger on a 12-yard pass play.

Reserve running back Clayton Heath added a 24-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter, and then reserve quarterback Norris Weese threw a 20-yard touchdown pass late in the game to Grady Richardson.

2 Injured 49ers Anxious To Play

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Two San Francisco 49ers who haven't played in a National Football League game yet this season because of injuries have a chance to play in Sunday's game in Chicago, and they couldn't be happier about it.

One is quarterback Steve Spurrier, who waited seven years for John Brodie to retire and then incurred a shoulder separation in the final preseason game.

The other is Bill Sandifer, a huge defensive tackle drafted No. 1 from UCLA but sidelined so far by surgery on a knee injury suffered in a college all-star game last June.

"I wouldn't start Steve in Chicago," said coach Dick Nolan. "He's been out a long time, and I'd want to work him in gradually. I would expect him to play some against the Bears."

Spurrier said, "I was physically able last Sunday, but our quarterbacks Norm Snead and Tom Owen were moving the ball down the field. I can get as much zip on the ball as before the injury, but it takes me longer to warm up now and the shoulder gets tight in about 30 minutes if I don't keep throwing."

Snead has a sore shoulder and knee from last Sunday's Dallas game and it's doubtful he will play against the Bears, leaving Owen to start.

The 6-foot-6 Sandifer, who has cut 20 pounds from his 285 playing weight at UCLA for added mobility, was told after his injury he would be out for the season. Instead, he worked hard to be ready in time for some of it.

"You don't know how much I've wanted to get a chance to play," the Oceanside, Calif. giant said yesterday. "I wasn't made to be a cheerleader. I'll be much happier when I'm part of the action."

Sandifer could give the 49ers needed strength for the inside rush.

"He's big and he moves surprisingly well for his size," said Nolan. "We don't expect him to set the world on fire because he has so much to learn, but it will be interesting to see him in action."

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

Unusual Scenario After Triumph

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Only the kind of team that can play like the Philadelphia Flyers can afford to talk like them.

Picture a scene, for example, where a coach says winning or losing isn't important, it's how you play the game ... and saying it like he means it.

Or, how about the team hero proclaiming that he really wasn't trying to win the National Hockey League game; all he wanted to do was not lose it.

Accept it or not, this was the scenario last night after Philadelphia nipped the New York Rangers 3-2 on a goal by Bobby Clarke with only 15 seconds left. Clarke blocked a shot by New York's Gilles Marotte and then carried the puck all by himself before beating Ed Giacomin with a sharp 40-foot drive.

"At that time of the game, you just want to make sure the other team doesn't score," Clarke said about his winning goal. "I was lucky to block Marotte's shot. I was just trying to stop it so it wouldn't go through and it hit the shaft of my stick. How often does something like that happen?"

When Clarke gained control of the puck, the Flyers had a 2-on-1 break with their captain skating up the right side and Bill Barber on the left. Brad Park was defending between them. Clarke said he didn't consider passing to Barber because, again, his main concern was not losing the game and he was afraid of a pass being intercepted and the Rangers gaining a break of their own.

The victory was the 12th against only three losses and two ties for the Flyers but Coach Fred Shero nevertheless remarked, "I don't judge by the wins and losses but by how good the team plays. I don't care whether we win or lose as long as I know we're doing things right."

Two other teams that seem to be doing almost everything right this season are Buffalo and Los Angeles and both continued their winning ways last night. Buffalo ran its unbeaten string to nine games and registered its first victory ever in the Montreal Forum by bombing the Canadiens 8-6 and Los Angeles, with only a single loss in 16 outings, trimmed Toronto 4-0.

Flyers 3 Rangers 2

Tom Bladon and Orest Kindrachuk gave Philadelphia a 2-0 lead before Bill Fairbairn and Jerry Butler tied it for the Rangers in the second period.

Sabres 8 Canadiens 6

Kings 4 Maple Leafs 0

Scouts 5 Blues 3

Penguins 8 Islanders 2

Syl Apps, playing in his 300th NHL game, and linemate Lowell MacDonald each had two goals and two assists in leading Pittsburgh's rout.

Flames 4 Capitals 3

North Stars 7 Red Wings 4

SEALS' SCORE — California Seals' defenseman Bob Stewart (not shown) shot the puck between Chicago defenseman Bill White (2) and goalie Tony Esposito for a first-period goal last night in Oakland. Seals' Joey Johnston waited for a possible rebound and follow up shot.

Giant Veterans Arnold, Rose, Sadek to Phoenix

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Three San Francisco Giant veterans have been sent down, thus reducing the roster to 35.

The Giants yesterday assigned the contracts of infielder Chris Arnold, pitcher Don Rose and catcher Mike Sadek to the Phoenix club of the Pacific Coast League.

Arnold, 27, has been with San Francisco the last three season and has an overall batting average of .247 in 184 games. In 1974 Chris hit .241 in 78 games with one home run and 26 runs batted in.

The 27-year old Rose was acquired by the Giants in 1973 in an AAA deal with the California Angels' farm club at Salt Lake City. Rose, a right-hander, was with San Francisco briefly last April, appearing in two games without a decision, then was optioned to Phoenix where he was 8-6 with a earned run average of 3.81 in 20 games.

Sadek, drafted out of the Minnesota organization following the 1969 season, was with Phoenix in 1974, hitting .251 with one homer and 38 RBIs in 117 games. The 28-year old receiver spent the entire 1973 season with San Francisco, batting .167 in 39 games.

PITTSBURGH — Tight end Bob Moore of the Oakland Raiders yesterday filed suit in U.S. District Court demanding $100,000 damages from the city of Pittsburgh for injuries he allegedly suffered in a scuffle with police here nearly two years ago. Study Of San Diego QB Contrasts: Fouts Vs. Freitas

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two young quarterbacks will have a lot of old grudges going when they lead San Diego into the Coliseum Sunday against the Oakland Raiders.

Both have a lot of connections with the San Francisco 49ers, which naturally makes them enemies of the Raiders.

Fouts' father was the 49ers' broadcaster for many years and the son went to St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco. Freitas is the son of a former San Francisco 49er quarterback. Young Freitas went to Serra High School on the San Francisco Peninsula.

They played against each other three times as high schoolers and, as Freitas recalls it, Fouts' team won twice and Freitas team once.

"Two guys after the same job can't be close friends," one football observer once noted.

Both quarterbacks are 23 years old, which means the two old high school rivals will be bothering the Raiders and competing with each other for many seasons to come.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Unchangeables

By LEE TREVINO

You're never completely satisfied if you break 100 for the first time, or break 70. Somewhere in 18 holes you think you made a boo-boo.

Maybe you forgot one teensy thing — like "seeing" the shot before you hit it.

Some things in this game never change if you give yourself your best chance. Like knowing how far you hit each club. Okay! So I harp on this a lot.

And setting the clubface square at the target every time. And using the same set-up (grip, stance) every time, except when you adjust them for special shots.

Those are things you should rehearse on the practice tee. You wouldn't try to climb on a horse without knowing which side to board him, would you? And you don't try things on a golf course that you haven't practiced.

Analyze the shot before you take a club out of the bag. Think: How far is it? What club will get me there?

Some cats grab a stick and they're still wondering whether to hit it hard, easy or three-quarters while they're still waggling. They are known as friends or angels, depending on how much you clip 'em for.

Soccer Crown Tie Is Sought By Marin

College of Marin's soccer team will be trying to tie for the Camino Norte Conference title tomorrow when they tackle the Canada booters in Redwood City.

Marin's lone loss in conference play was against Canada earlier this season and a turn around tomorrow in the 3 p.m. game would mean a tie. That will be Marin's final regular season game.

Marin's overall record fell to 13-7-1 yesterday in a 5-2 loss to City College of San Francisco in a non-conference game in Kentfield.

The Mariners went ahead in the first half 2-0 on goals by Tod Beeson and Lyle Weden but San Francisco came storming back with five second-half goals.

Airplane Hangar Goes To NHL Islanders

FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (AP) — A former airplane hangar once used by Republic Aircraft is now called the Racquet and Rink and has been purchased by the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League. The hangar now contains two regulation ice rinks, two doubles tennis courts and five practice courts.

Michael Manzer, vice president of the Islanders, says plans include a summer hockey league for youngsters 6 to 18, and the possibility that the Islanders will hold part of their 1974-75 training camp at the large complex. At present the Racquet and Rink has a women's hockey program, public skating sessions and figure skating workouts for competitive youngsters.

runners in the top 15. Ray Green's fourth place led the charge, followed by Tom O'Reilly (fifth), Bill Hoffman (ninth), Steve Roberts (10th), Jim Coughlin (12th) and Brooke Chesnut (15th).

Individual varsity winner was Dan Aldridge of Petaluma High who outdueled Redwood's Hal Schulz. Schulz went undefeated in 12 MCAL meets this year, a first for such a feat in recent MCAL history.

Aldridge was clocked in 14:27 and Schulz in 14:31. They were followed by Steve Locey of Tam, 14:40, Green, 14:46, and O'Reilly, 14:53. Redwood runners Dave Mihaeloff and Chuck McMillan finished sixth and eighth. Locey, because of his third-place finish, also qualified for next Tuesday's meet.

MCAL teams swept the first three places in frosh-soph competition yesterday, Tamalpais winning with 33 points followed by San Rafael with 57 and Redwood with 66. Rod Berry of Redwood set a course record of 11:45.5 in winning and teammate Bruce Gregg was second in 12:02, three second ahead of Tamalpais' Aran Collier.

Girls didn't have to qualify for the North Coast meet yesterday but competed anyway. Tamalpais High's Linda Broderick set a course record of 9:45.8 in leading her team to a victory over Redwood, Del Norte and Ukiah. San Rafael's Laurie Scharninghausen was second, followed by Sheri Quilivan of Del Norte, Theresa Bertolino of Tam and Wendy Severinghaus of Redwood.

PREP NOTES

Marin Catholic Ponders Grid Decision

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The Marin Catholic Wildcats have proven this season they are good enough to rejoin the Marin County Athletic League. Whether they want to, however, is another question.

The Wildcats, coached by Bruno Banducci, have a respectable, 4-5 record with one game to play. More importantly, the record includes victories over two MCAL teams, Drake and Redwood last week.

The Wildcats were beaten by three MCAL opponents, but significantly, two of the losses were very close — to Tam, 14-13, and to San Rafael, 18-13.

That is the best Marin Catholic has done against MCAL competition since withdrawing from the league eight years ago. The problem then and now is that the school is so much smaller than others in the county. Enrollment this fall is around 740, compared to more than double that for most schools in Marin.

Today Banducci was to meet with athletic director Dave Gonsalves and principal Rev. Francis Lacey to try and decide whether to petition the league for re-entry. Their decision will depend largely on whether they believe Marin Catholic can compete against much larger schools in the long run.

"I'd love to see us get back in the league," says Banducci. "On the other hand, it's no fun being a constant doormat, knowing you're going to get beat the way we did several years back. I don't know if we can take the consistent pounding of larger, deeper teams week after week.

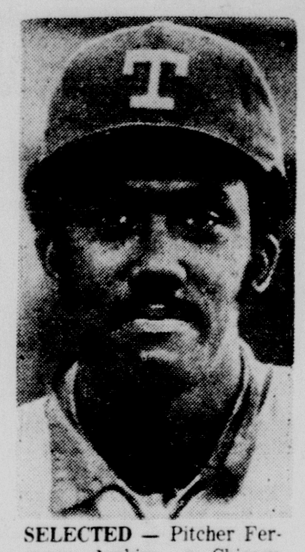

"We've got seven or eight players who could do well in the league, but because of their size, other schools have 25 to 30 quality players."

This means, among other things, that injuries cause more damage to the Wildcats than to other teams. "The quality drops down drastically when you lose one or two players from a thin club. Other teams lose a starter and just put in a reserve. They hardly feel the difference."

That point was brought home two weeks ago when Marin Catholic played San Marin. The score was tied at seven in the third quarter when the Wildcats lost their two top rushers, Steve Lombardi and Ed Ugarte. Final score, San Marin 22, Marin Catholic 7.

If they do decide to rejoin, says Banducci, it will be with the intention of staying. "Not necessarily to win the league, but to play representative football and not get blown out every week."

One factor which may weigh in favor of rejoining is the tremendous success this year of the Wildcats junior varsity team. It has a 6-1-1 overall record that includes victories over San Rafael, Tamalpais and San Marin, and a tie with Drake. Redwood is the only MCAL team to beat the J.V.s.

SELECTED — Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, a Chicago Cubs' castoff in 1973 who won 25 games for the Texas Rangers in 1974, was named the United Press International Major League Comeback Player of the Year. Jenkins was 14-16 in 1973 and 25-12 in 1974. (UPI Telephoto)

Curtis Date Set For 1978 Play

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — The 1978 Curtis Cup golf matches will be played at the Apawamis Club here. The dates for the 20th match in the series which began in 1932 will be Aug. 4 and 5. The matches are between United States women amateur golfers on one side and Great Britain and Ireland on the other.

The 1976 match will be played at Royal Lytha. and St. Anne's in England. The United States has won 14 times and lost twice. Two matches ended in ties.

Tars Get Last Chance Tomorrow

The College of Marin Tars get their best and final chance to win a 1974 Camino Norte Conference football game tomorrow when they end the season against Merritt of Oakland in Kentfield starting at 1 p.m.

The Tars, losers to Los Medanos 21-7 last week, take an 0-4 conference and 1-7 overall record into tomorrow's game, but Merritt hasn't done much better. The Thunderbirds have played more like canaries, winning only two of seven. Last week, however, they abandoned Marin in the CNC celler by beating Solano of Suisun City, 34-16.

Marin has been hurt by a lack of size, especially on the line, and by injuries to some key people. Quarterback Tim Nowell, who took the Tars to victory over Ohlone and almost engineered an upset of Contra Costa, will miss a second straight game due to a fractured index finger on his throwing hand.

One bright spot for Marin in recent weeks has been running back Steve D'Ambra. Against Los Medanos he gained 80 yards in 14 carries, giving him 261 for the last three games.

Merritt is led by quarterback George Bond, the fourth leading passer in the conference, and Tom Coleman, among the top 10 receivers. But teamwise the Thunderbirds have gained only 128 yards per game, which puts them last in the conference.

The Marin defense, keyed by safeties Mike Rennier and Steve Withers and cornerback Mike Evans, should be able to stop the Merritt attack. The problem is whether the Tars can put together an offense in the absence of Nowell.

Hoza Wright, who threw 27 times and completed 12 for 49 yards against Los Medanos, will start at quarterback, with D'Ambra, Gino Pomilia and Wayne Smith at the running positions.

Challenger's Manager Asks Chief Inspector

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Adan Gaitan, manager of Nicaraguan boxer Alexis Arguello, has asked the California Athletic Commission to bar Mexican-American officials from working Arguello's World Boxing Association featherweight title bout with Ruben Olivares of Mexico.

Gaitan told Commission Chief Inspector Joey Olmos that a Mexican-American official working the Nov. 23 fight at the Forum "might be subconsciously swayed by a highly partisan crowd."

Arguello, the challenger, is listed as a 10-7 favorite to unseat Olivares. Olivares is from Mexico City but has a large following here from past title defenses.

BAGHDAD'S BURDENS

For many workers it takes a strong back to survive in Baghdad but there are undoubtedly few who bear a bigger burden than the fellow at top left who is lugging a refrigerator. The workman above, loaded down with sheets of plastic foam is additional proof of the strong back theory as he totes a load of much greater volume, though lesser weight, than his counterpart with the refrigerator. Less of a load is carried by the man at left who uses his head to transport a load of bakery goods from his place of employment to a position outside a Baghdad bank just before a lunch break to sell his wares to passing pedestrians.

Dec. 13 Set As Deadline For Bicentennial Designs

Deadline for Marin County students to enter their designs for the Marin Bicentennial Medallion is Dec. 13, Bicentennial chairman Nancy King Hayden said yesterday.

Students of all public and private schools in the county are eligible. Entry forms are available from the Bicentennial office, 810 Fifth Avenue, Suite C.

First prize winner will receive $250; second, $150; third, $50, and there will be 10 runner-up awards of $10 each. Judges will review the entries Dec. 15 and announce the awards Jan. 7. They are Elizabeth Gatov, former treasurer of the United States; Marin Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, San Rafael coin expert Don Antonio, and Martin Stoelzel and Masatoyo Kishi, art department chairmen for College of Marin and Dominican College respectively.

Silver and bronze medals will be made from the winning design to commemorate Marin's participation in the Bicentennial of the United States, Mrs. Hayden said.

Geneological Group To Have Display

The Marin geneological group will have a display of records, charts and books at the Marin Civic Center in San Rafael starting Monday.

The display, based on the U.S. Bicentennial, will cover the landing of the Mayflower and the Revolutionary War.

28 Officers Linked To My Lai Coverup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway yesterday released part of the long-secret Peers report which concluded that at least 28 officers — two of them chaplains — contributed to the cover-up of the My Lai massacre.

The report, prepared by now-retired Army Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, said the officers by either commission or omission helped cover up the slaughter of Vietnamese civilians in March, 1968.

Peers investigated the cover-up after published reports brought the massacre to light, and announced on completion of his report in March, 1970, that he had found "serious deficiencies in the actions" of 14 officers from the rank of captain up.

HOWARD H. CALLAWAY
Releases secret report

Callaway, at a news conference, released two of the four volumes prepared by Peers — one of which set the number of officers involved at 28, including Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, commander of the American division whose units were involved in the air and ground sweep through My Lai.

Also named were Lt. Col. Francis R. Lewis and Capt. Carl E. Creswell, chapalins who served in the division.

Callaway, asked by reporters if he thought an incident such as My Lai might recur, said after a moment's thought: "I don't guess anything is going to prevent it. I do feel though that it isn't going to happen again."

He said the training of today's GIs takes My Lai into account and the men are more carefully schooled in their responsibility toward civilians.

Callaway said the Peers text had been withheld thus far to protect the rights of the accused. Army sources, however, said President Richard M. Nixon's administration had insisted on suppressing the report and that after President Ford took office the wheels immediately began turning to make the report public.

It had been reported that the Peers material had been withheld for fear it might prejudice the case of former Lt. William L. Calley Jr., released Saturday after serving three years and four months on conviction of killing at least 22 civilians at Vietnam.

All 14 officers originally named by Peers were charged with crimes in connection with the massacre. Only Col. Oran K. Henderson, commander of the unit that made the My Lai sweep, was tried on cover-up charges and he was acquitted in December, 1971, after a four-month court-martial.

Callaway released Volume 1, the conclusions and recommendations, and Volume 3, the documentary evidence amassed by the inquiry — but withheld Volumes 2 and 4, the voluminous text of the testimony and investigative reports.

He said the two sections were being withheld because they contained raw comments, "many of them quite inflammatory, many of them without any backup."

The inch-thick Volume 1 said that Koster — later demoted to one-star general through administrative action — had information from three different sources that civilians had been killed but failed to report this to higher authorities.

It also said he countermanded the order of a subordinate to send a company of soldiers back into My Lai to determine how many civilians had been killed.

The report then detailed 19 specific acts of omission by Koster contributing to the cover-up such as failure to tell superiors that the Vietnamese district chief had told him 500 civilians had been murdered.

The Peers Report said Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, field commander of the May Lai operation who was killed in combat some days later, "planned, ordered and actively directed the execution of an unlawful operation." It charged Maj. Charles C. Calhoun, Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc and Capt. Ernest L. Medina with joining in the planning.

The Peers report concluded:

"The massacre resulted primarily from the nature of the orders issued by persons in the chain of command within Task Force Barker.

"The task force commander's order and the associated intelligence estimate issued prior to the operation were embellished as they were disseminated through each lower level of command and ultimately presented to the individual soldier a false and misleading picture of the . . . area as an armed enemy camp largely devoid of civilian inhabitants."

As for the chaplains, the report said Creswell reported what he knew to Lewis but that he failed to report it as well through military channels. Lewis was accused of limiting his action "to informal discussions with various staff officers."

Stiff Debate Awaits French Abortion Law

PARIS (AP) — Measures granting women unrestricted right to seek abortion until the 10th week of pregnancy were approved yesterday by the French cabinet. But stiff debate awaits the legislation in parliament.

The bill was proposed to meet widespread public sentiment that the 54-year-old law now on the books, permitting abortion only when the mother's life is directly threatened, is outmoded.

The drive for liberalized abortion laws has been stoked by well-publicized accounts of prominent women who admitted to abortions in defiance of the law.

Feminists insist the 1920 law is not only archaic but discriminates in favor of the rich. They said poor women had to go to backstairs clinics for clandestine abortions while the affluent could travel to Switzerland or Britain for legal ones.

The current law threatens women who have illegal abortions with a maximum two years in jail and $1,300 in fines. Doctors who perform abortions risk 10 years in jail and a $14,500 fine.

Abortions may not become any cheaper if the new law is passed. To encourage birth control, the law stipulates that the cost of an abortion cannot be reimbursed by medical insurance.
